

LINDBERGH BABY KIDNAPING NEARS SOLUTION

O'RYAN REVEALS HOW HAUPTMANN WAS CAPTURED

MARKED MONEY GAVE POLICE FIRST CLUE

Officers Find $13,750 Under Floor Of Garage

New York, Sept. 20.—(P)—Police Commissioner John R. O'Ryan tonight issued the following statement in connection with the Lindbergh case:

"The taking into custody of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the most sensational crime of modern times—nearly a solution with spectacular swiftness tonight after the arrest of a German fugitive and the recovery of part of the $50,000 ransom."

The story as related by the detectives who have been engaged on the case for more than two and one-half years might best be told in chronological fashion.

Money Shows Up

"Within two days after the payment of the ransom money in St. Raymond's cemetery a $20 gold certificate was discovered in the East River Savings bank, on Amsterdam Avenue and 96th Street.

"However, despite untiring efforts on the part of the investigators, we were unable to discover a single tangible lead as to the identity of the passer of the ransom money, and for more than two years not one bill of the $20 denomination appeared again.

"Meanwhile, some $5,000 in $5 and $10 bills were passed to small storekeepers at various locations throughout the city.

"The small denomination of these bills and their common use made them practically useless to us, yet entailed an individual investigation for each specific bill. Despite the disheartening fact of the seeming failure, our men refused to be disheartened. Three weeks ago $10 and $20 gold certificates appeared in the Yorkville and Fordham sections of the city.

"Storekeepers, garage owners and merchants, particularly gas stations, were asked to cooperate and requested to identify, as near as possible, the owner of each $10 and $20 gold certificate passed on them.

"It was suggested, whenever possible, to mark either a street address or automobile license number on the bills of the one passing the bill.

"In connection with this we traced a $20 gold certificate to a shoe store in Fordham and from that merchant we secured a description of the man who passed it.

"Subsequently, one of the ransom bills bearing an automobile license number was discovered in the Corn Exchange Bank at Park Avenue and 125th Street. From there the bill was traced.

DECLARES NRA CODE SECTIONS 'POISON TRAPS'

Ralph Flanders Asks Sharp Revision Of Blue Eagle

Washington, Sept. 20.—(P)—NRA code sections providing for price control and other competition-reducing machinery were labeled "poison traps" today by Ralph E. Flanders, a member of Secretary Roper's advisory and planning council.

Flanders, addressing the annual convention of American Trade Association executives, advocated a sharp revision of blue eagle codes to avoid "governmental dictatorship." Saying that business men had grasped at codes at first to escape "the annoyances and dangers" of competition, he added:

"The bait is tempting, but the trap is strong, swift and sharp. And the bait is poisoned."

Blackwell Smith, a legal advisor at NRA, told the executives soon afterward, however, that the recovery agency had no intention of withdrawing from price control or production limitations as long as they could be administered by agencies of self-government.

Others beside Flanders made demands at the meeting for code revision. The changes were asked to correct abuses which speakers declared had been found in a year's operation under the recovery act. On the other hand, members of several industries operating under the agricultural adjustment act praised the results obtained.

Smith told the trade executives that now is a time of "stock taking" and that their duty is to guide their industries toward a general recovery.

"This guiding should be courageous," he said. "The more it is done by agencies of industrial self-government the greater will be the confidence of government in such agencies."

In warning against what he described as the dangers of rigid competitive control through codes, Flanders, president of the Jones and Lamson Machine company of Springfield, Vermont, said the temptation to guard against ruthless business methods through NRA protection was great.

DRAMATIC SCENE IN LINDBERGH CASE DESCRIBED

Dr. John F. Condon Makes Partial Identification of Suspect

New York, Sept. 21.—(P)—(Friday)—The New York Times describes a dramatic scene at the Greenwich police station early today when Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnap suspect, was confronted with Dr. John F. Condon, the intermediary, who made a "partial" identification of Hauptmann as the kidnaper contact man.

The Times' story follows:

In an upper room of the station house Hauptmann was placed in a line-up consisting of twenty men including himself, and Dr. Condon was asked if he could identify the man to whom he gave the $50,000 in the cemetery.

Dr. Condon asked if he could proceed by elimination, and Inspector John J. Lyons of police headquarters, who was in charge of the line-up, assented.

Walking directly up to Hauptmann, Dr. Condon picked him out of the line-up first. Then he picked out three detectives.

Lining up of the four men including Hauptmann, Dr. Condon asked each one his name, and exchanged a few words with each one about the spelling and pronunciation of his name.

Dr. Condon then asked permission to write a note. Inspector Lyons agreed and supplied paper and pencil.

Here is what Dr. Condon wrote in the first of three notes:

"I always keep my word. If the baby is returned in good health, I will do everything to help you."

Dr. Condon handed this to Hauptmann and said: "Read it aloud!"

Nervous and shaking, the man did so.

Without asking the other three men he had picked out of the line-up to read the note, Dr. Condon then wrote a second note, which read:

"Are you ready to act. We cannot wait longer. He will smack me."

Dr. Condon handed this to Hauptmann, who read it aloud.

After this Dr. Condon went up to each of the four men in turn, asking: "Did you ever see me before?"

School Building Falls On 500 Children, 200 Casualties

Tokyo, Sept. 21.—(Friday)—(P)—A school building collapsed upon 500 small children in Kyoto during a disastrous typhoon which roared across Central and Eastern Japan today, causing some 200 casualties, including many deaths, Rengo (Japanese) News Agency reports said today.

At least 20 persons were reported killed or injured near Kyoto when two passenger trains were overturned by the wind. A falling school house at Momoyama, near Kyoto, caused 10 known deaths.

Inrushing seas inundated 2,000 houses in the village of Fukura, near Kobe, and many were feared to have drowned. The blow struck Gifu at 10:30 a. m. at a velocity of 7 miles an hour.

Osaka police reported more than 100 persons were known to have been killed there.

The newspaper Asahi said there were indications that the greatest natural disaster since the 1923 earthquake had struck Japan, adding that more than 150 school houses had collapsed in Osaka alone.

HAD SMALL ESTATE

Los Angeles, Sept. 20.—(P)—Altho Russ Columbo, singing troubador of the screen, had crossed the threshold of stardom when the accidental death of a friend's ancient duelling pistol ended his life September 2, he left an estate valued at less than $5,000.

Milton Hunt, Jr., disclosed this figure does not include the $49,000 insurance policy which is to be paid the singer's mother, Mrs. Julio Columbo. Hunt said he would file a petition soon to probate Columbo's estate.

Mrs. Columbo is still ignorant of her son's death. She is in a Santa Monica hospital, suffering from a heart ailment.

DIES OF INJURIES

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 20.—(P)—Mrs. A. L. Olds, wife of a Charles City, Ia., banker, died here today of injuries suffered in an automobile collision Sunday. Her death was the third fatality of the crash. The other victims were Charles T. Pitman, 45, of Worthington, Minn., and his two year old son, Larry.

MORRO CASTLE OPERATOR TOLD TO KEEP SILENT

Says He Was Informed That He Would Be Taken Care Of

New York, Sept. 20.—(P)—George I. Alagna, first assistant radio operator on the Morro Castle, today told a federal board investigating the disaster in which 132 lives were lost that a Ward line representative told him "to cooperate with the Ward line and you'll be taken care of."

"Keep your mouth shut," Alagna said that Stanley R. Wright, Ward line representative, told him. "Don't say anything to anyone. Come to my office and this thing will blow over."

The alleged conversation took place on board the coast guard cutter Tampa after the last remaining officers and members of the crew had been taken off the burning liner, Alagna told Dickerson N. Hoover, federal steamship inspector in charge of the investigation.

Taken to Office

After the cutter landed, Alagna said, he was driven to Wright's office where he asked for funds to go home to Connecticut. He was told, he testified, that that would be taken care of later.

Alagna asserted, however, that he was offered $10 and access to Wright's personal bank account and down town clothing accounts.

Earlier in the day Alagna told in detail of his efforts to get acting Captain W. F. Wams to order an SOS sent out.

Five trips and "strong pleading" were necessary, Alagna testified, before Capt. Wams gave him the order to send the SOS at "about 3:25." Alagna had been assigned to the bridge, he said, to relay Wams' orders to Chief Radio Operator George Rogers in the radio room.

In the meantime, he said he observed only scenes of confusion in the wheel house, on the bridge and on the decks.

"Rogers and I seemed to be the only ones who knew how serious the situation was," Alagna testified.

"I passed the wheelhouse," he said, "and the man on duty was spinning the wheel in different directions like it was out of order."

"On my fourth trip to the bridge I learned that the wheel had been abandoned."

"On the bridge," the radio operator testified, "Capt. Wams was pacing back and forth. I had to follow him around and even then I don't think he recognized me."

"Everything was unintelligible and confused on the bridge."

"After I had made three trips to the bridge without getting orders, I sent the SOS, Rogers and I decided (Continued on Page 10)

Plan For Settling Great Textile Strike Proposed by Winant Mediation Board

By Richard L. Turner Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Sept. 20.—(P)—A plan for settling the great strike in the textile industry was proposed tonight by the Winant mediation board and given the authority of President Roosevelt's backing.

But at headquarters of the United Textile Workers it was said that until the U. T. W. executive council "declines otherwise," the strike will and must continue in full force.

The council will meet within 24 hours.

The Winant board's plan called for: "Creation of a textile labor relations board for the 'more adequate protection of labor's rights under the collective bargaining and other labor provisions of the code.'"

A study by the labor department and the federal trade commission to determine whether increased wages are economically feasible;

Regulation of the stretch-out-the-practice of increasing the number of machines tended by individual workers—by a second board, acting under the textile labor board;

An investigation by the labor department to settle the question of differentials between minimum wages prescribed by the code and the compensation of skilled workers.

In addition, the board asserted labor conditions in the industry had been "below the average" for many years, criticized the present method of settling Section 7 (A) disputes as "ineffective" and found an increased use of the stretch-out since adoption of the code.

Francis J. Gorman, national strike leader, discussed the board's report with William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor. He called the executive council meeting.

The board's report was presented to President Roosevelt today at Hyde Park by Governor Winant of New Hampshire and Secretary Perkins, and a thoroughgoing discussion of the issues involved followed. Miss Perkins later said the president had "accepted" the report.

A foreword by the president accompanied formal publication of the report tonight. He said:

"The excellent report of the board of inquiry for the cotton textile industry presents findings and recommendations which cover the basic sources of difficulties, and does this in a way which shows the wholly fair and reasonable approach with which the board undertook its task."

"It is I think a good example of the practical way in which industrial problems can be calmly discussed and solved under a republican form of government."

"It is of course greatly to be hoped that a fair solution can be had because of the good will and intelligence which undoubtedly exists in the industry as a whole including both the workers and plant owners."

The board said in its report that the findings and recommendations were "based on as comprehensive and careful a survey as the situation permitted," and added:

"The board is confident that these findings and recommendations are fair and reasonable, that they meet the basic sources of the difficulty and that they offer the possibility of a just and lasting settlement. We believe further that they provide a sound basis for that 'united action of labor and management' contemplated by the Recovery Act and the Recovery program."

"We therefore earnestly hope that the United Textile Workers will call off the strike on the basis of these recommendations. At the same time we request the employers in the industry to take back the workers now on strike without discrimination."

While Winant and Miss Perkins were consulting the president, sporadic outbreaks of violence, and troops under arms in a half dozen states emphasized the bitterness that underlines the industrial conflict.

BRUNO HAUPTMANN, CARPENTER IS ARRESTED AND $13,750 RANSOM MONEY DISCOVERED IN HIS GARAGE

KIDNAP SUSPECT IS QUESTIONED BY OFFICIALS

Bruno Hauptmann's Wife, Nephew Also Quizzed

New York, Sept. 20.—(P)—Handcuffed to two detectives, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, suspected Lindbergh kidnaper, was brought tonight to the Bronx County Court-House after an automobile trip from the Greenwich street police station. He was taken immediately to the office of the district attorney, who has jurisdiction over both the territory in which the ransom was paid and Hauptmann's home is located.

Dr. John F. Condon, the kidnaper intermediary, went to the Bronx, his home borough, in an automobile that followed one in which Hauptmann was transferred.

The district attorney and Inspector Henry Bruckner, in charge of Bronx police, began questioning Hauptmann in an effort to learn what disposition was made of the part of the $50,000 ransom not recovered at the Hauptmann home.

Meanwhile, a half dozen men began digging up the ground surrounding the garage at Hauptmann's residence. Working with the aid of flashlights, they declined to reveal their identity but policemen ordered a crowd of curious to leave the vicinity.

Digging operations were stopped after a half hour when the workers had uncovered only what appeared to be an auto license plate which was placed in charge of a federal operative.

Police posted a guard about the residence and refused to allow anyone home from school remained a mystery.

A climax of the day's searching of the neighborhood came when W. L. Hamilton, uncle of the child, found a bloodstained handkerchief on the railroad tracks near the street. There was evidence, he said, that an effort had been made to remove the initial from the handkerchief.

The fate of the child who last was seen at 1:15 p. m. Wednesday on her way home from school remained a mystery.

Previously, dark stains running about 50 feet on Scott avenue and ending in a large blot, had been discovered and a segment of the pavement turned over to Dr. William Lister, state bacteriologist, to determine if it is blood. He promised a report tomorrow. When last seen Dorothy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Distelhurst, was enroute home and had reached a point four blocks away from Scott avenue, her home street. The section is sparsely built up, but the only hazard then confronting her was the L. & N. railroad crossing.

It was nine hours later that police broadcast a request for 200 citizens to assist in a search of the neighborhood and before dawn hundreds had joined in covering a five-mile area—fruitlessly.

U. S. Gold Certificate Gives Major Clue in Kidnap Case

New York, Sept. 20.—(P)—Walter Lyle, 35, gasoline filling station manager, disclosed tonight that his suspicions of a U. S. gold certificate supplied one of the major clues in the apprehension of Bruno Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnaper suspect.

"Shortly before 10 o'clock last Saturday morning," Lyle said a man in a sedan (Dodge) stopped at his station, (Lexington Ave., between 127th and 128th St.) and ordered five gallons of gasoline.

"In payment he offered a $10 gold certificate."

"You don't see many of these any more," I remarked.

"I've only got a few left," the driver replied.

As the automobile drove off, Lyle jotted down the license number on the bill.

"There's something funny about this," I told Johnny Lyons, my assistant," Lyle explained.

"Lyons suggested 'let's take it to a bank—it may be one of the Lindbergh bills.'"

The two hurried to a nearby bank. Lyons continued, and there officials checked the certificate against a list of numbers of Lindbergh ransom notes. They found Lyle's note was included and immediately notified authorities.

A check of the license plates led to Hauptmann.

IDENTIFICATION OF SUSPECT IS QUICKLY MADE

Taxi Driver Claims He Is Man Who Sent Note To Jafsie

New York, Sept. 21.—(P)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Bronx carpenter arrested in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping ransom case, ordered held today on a charge of extortion with arraignment set for 9 A. M.

By Francis A. Jamieson (Copyright, 1934, by A. P.)

New York, Sept. 20.—(P)—The Lindbergh baby kidnaping case—the most sensational crime of modern times—nearly a solution with spectacular swiftness tonight after the arrest of a German fugitive and the recovery of part of the $50,000 ransom.

The prisoner is Bruno Richard Hauptmann, 35, an alien and a carpenter by trade, who entered the U. S. in 1923 as a stowaway while on parole from a German prison.

His wife and nephew, Hans Mueller, also were held for questioning.

In Washington, Department of Justice officials said Hauptmann's handwriting tallied with that of the ransom notes. The check, they said, was made with an automobile license application by Hauptmann.

In the garage of the Hauptmann home in the Bronx—but a few miles from St. Raymond's cemetery where Dr. John F. Condon, the intermediary, paid over $50,000 ransom for the baby later found dead—$13,750 of the ransom bills were discovered, cached in the floor and window sill.

Police Com. John F. O'Ryan made the announcement of Hauptmann's arrest.

He spoke for the combined force of investigators that apprehended the alien—federal agents, New Jersey troopers and New York City police.

"In your opinion," O'Ryan was asked, "does this solve the Lindbergh kidnaping?"

O'Ryan conferred for a minute with J. Edgar Hoover, Chief of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the Department of Justice, and with H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police.

He said:

"Yes, it will."

Making public full details of the arrest, which occurred Tuesday, O'Ryan, a carpenter and cabinet maker, admitted he worked as a carpenter in the neighborhood of the Lindbergh home.

Detectives have established, further, the commission said, that Hauptmann had access to a lumber yard in the neighborhood where timber was found bearing the same trade mark as the lumber used to make a ladder—upon which the kidnaper climbed about 10 o'clock the night of March 1, 1932.

O'Ryan disclosed that Hauptmann denied that he had a criminal record. I have just been advised that he admitted he was on parole and escaped as a stowaway from Germany to prevent his return to prison there.

Identification of Hauptmann followed immediately with the announcement of his arrest.

John Perrone, taxicab driver of the Bronx, picked Hauptmann out of the police lineup, it was reported, as the man who gave him a dollar to take a note to the Condon home in the Bronx the night of March 12, 1932—11 days after the blue-eyed, blonde son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was snatched from his crib in (Continued on Page 10)

Bloodstained Kerchief Found On Suburban Street

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 20.—(P)—A blood-stained handkerchief bearing the letter "D," a small hair-pin, and dark stains upon a suburban street were the mute evidences of tragedy in the hands of police tonight as the officers sought to solve the disappearance of 6-year old Dorothy Distelhurst.

The fate of the child who last was seen at 1:15 p. m. Wednesday on her way home from school remained a mystery.

A climax of the day's searching of the neighborhood came when W. L. Hamilton, uncle of the child, found a bloodstained handkerchief on the railroad tracks near the street. There was evidence, he said, that an effort had been made to remove the initial from the handkerchief.

INVESTIGATORS HIT AT MAKERS OF GAS BOMBS

Claim Two Babies Were Gassed During Riot

Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Sept. 20.—(P)—Senate investigators hit caustically today at makers of tear gas bombs, asserting in one instance that "two babies were gassed to death" in the 1932 bonus riots here, and in another that an American missionary had played a dual role of preacher and gas salesman.

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) made the declaration that two babies had been gassed during the eviction of the bonus army from the capital by federal troops two years ago.

"I challenge that statement," replied B. C. Goss, head of the Lake Erie Chemical Company, and United States ordinance engineers, of Cleveland, makers, among other things, of gas. A heated controversy followed.

Conducted Sales

Only a little while before, Paul Young, American missionary to Ecuador and a brother of John W. Young, president of the Federal Laboratories, Inc., of Pittsburgh, was portrayed in a self-written letter as having conducted sales efforts for his brother.

"Tambourine in one hand and gas bomb in the other," was the description offered by Senator Bone (D-Wash.).

John Young, gas bomb maker, on the stand when the reference was made, objected to this description of his kinsman in a voice that shook with emotion.

"You haven't the right picture, senator," he protested.

These exchanges highlighted a day of testimony in which Senator Clark also contended that Major General George L. Leach, chief of the militia bureau, should be "put before a board for acting as a salesman for a poison gas company." Clark earlier had read a letter written by Leach on war department stationery, which was published in a catalog of the Lake Erie Chemical Co.

As an aside the committee also had placed before it a letter from Pierre S. Dupont, president of E. I. Dupont de Nemours, reporting he had contributed $107,600 to Democratic national campaign funds from 1928 to 1932.

He said he donated $12,378 to the Republican national committee in 1920. Other Dupont contributions will be reported later.

During his heated exchange with Senator Clark, Goss, a lieutenant-colonel in the reserve corps, suggested that the Missouri senator go to army officers familiar with the bonus army episode to check on the accuracy of his statement.

"I'm not certain they would be interested in confirming that two babies were gassed during an army offensive," Clark said.

"But the people in general believe that two babies died shortly afterwards from the effects of the gas, and I also believe it."

COL. LINDBERGH AND WIFE ARE IN SECLUSION

Couple Nowhere To Be Reached When Arrest of Suspect Is "Flashed"

Los Angeles, Sept. 20.—(P)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh secluded themselves even from their hosts here today while reports were circulated the famous couple knew in advance the kidnaper case arrest, was expected in New York.

They were nowhere to be reached when news of the arrest flashed out of New York and Washington.

A close friend, one of their hosts, said today they would have nothing to say (save to authorities) about the arrest, and intimates they were preparing to fly back to New York, where the arrest was made.

Last night the colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh were guests of J. L. Maddux, local air transport executive, after having spent a part of the day at Hermosa Beach, a resort of Santa Monica Bay. This morning the couple left the Maddux home for an unannounced destination, not long before the first reports were flashed from the east that an important development in the kidnaping case was impending.

During the day efforts to locate news were unavailing, while messengers poured in from all parts of the country for them.

Winchester callers in the city yesterday included Mrs. Caroline Mark-

Believe Police Officials Are On Warm Trail

New York, Sept. 21.—(P)—(Friday)—Police Commissioner O'Ryan, Col. Schwarzkopf of the New Jersey state police, and J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the department of justice, agents, had dropped suddenly out of sight early today, creating a belief that new developments might be imminent in the Lindbergh case investigation.

Following the issuance of a statement by Commissioner O'Ryan, in which the others concurred, Bruno Hauptmann, was turned over to the Bronx county authorities. At the same time the officers themselves disappeared.

There is speculation that they may have obtained leads from Hauptmann as the result of extensive questioning, and started on a quiet hunt directed toward clearing up the case.

Those "Rubber" Bayonets

From the strike out of the south comes a story that is both fantastic and tragic. In Charlotte, S. C., strike pickets attacked national guardsmen and one man was killed by a bayonet thrust. All day the pickets had cursed and taunted the soldiers, climaxing their volleys of words with a night attack.

Among other things, the pickets said the guns in the hands of the soldiers were not loaded and the bayonets were not real. They thought the sharp pikes on the ends of the guns were made of rubber and could not really hurt them. They must have believed the state had no intention of really guarding property or protecting the lives of workers.

It is believed the feeling that the guards had no weapons that could inflict harm was responsible for the attack. The false impressions of the pickets were banished once they made the attack. Too late they learned the bayonets were made of real steel and the guns carried real bullets.

There are some rather hard facts left in our political system, among them the axiom that life and property must be protected in times of danger. The state takes no chances with violence, and the people do not desire soft words when the public peace is at stake. Those who keep the peace and go about their business quietly need have no fear, but those who attack the guardians of public safety need not expect to be treated kindly.

A Lion Goes Native

While a Richmond, Va., circus crowd sought safety or watched curiously from safe vantage points a circus lion broke out of its cage and went native in the street. It attacked two horses, and then sought refuge in a factory.

Once the animal was wounded, its rage knew no bounds. It roared and rushed about until it was finally shot as it crouched inside the factory building. If the animal had acquired any good traits thru its circus training, all were forgotten in its mad fight for freedom.

No beast of the jungle is ever safe in captivity. There is always a chance for a weak latch on a cage door, a broken bar, or a loose fitting. Constantly there rages in the animal's heart an anger against the restraints that hold him. He wants to be back in the jungle, tho he may not have seen it for years. He wants to roam unfettered and to seek and kill his food in its natural habitat. He cannot help this desire, it is instinctive with him.

Which explains why nobody cares to have a lion loose in the streets. And why even the circus men would rather shoot one that has escaped than take chances of trying to capture him. Sometimes he can be returned to his cage, but at no time will the hunters hesitate to shoot.

Much Mischief Afoot

Revelations of the huge dynamite cache found on the docks at Houston, Texas, are startling. Apparently there is much mischief afoot in the shipping industry. There have been four fires at sea the past two weeks, among them the Morro Castle disaster, costing 132 lives.

There was 319 pounds of high-powered dynamite in the bundle found at Houston. It was connected with a battery and an alarm clock—all ready to go when the fatal moment arrived. It would have wrought great destruction and perhaps cost many lives.

If this dynamite plot and the four ship fires originated from the same source, a vast conspiracy against ocean commerce, what may yet be the extent of the menace? Who or what is at the bottom of the matter? In some quarters communists are blamed, but there is no conclusive proof that they are responsible. They are convenient as a cause of suspicion on account of their terrorist policies and their willingness to wreck almost anything to discourage people from normal activity.

But there may be other influences and forces at work. Revolutionary plots attempt to gain insurance benefits, efforts to influence the flow of commerce one way or another, these are some of the possibilities. But whoever is responsible for the fires and dynamite plans is ruthless, caring nothing for human life if only certain ends can be accomplished. Any person or group with such motives and determination to work out their plans must be discovered and brought to justice.

Summer Is Ended

Summer comes to an end this week. It has been most unusual, and some people will be glad it is gone. Drought and intense heat have been its chief features, with a cool spell in August to give everybody the flu. There are prospects for a pleasant autumn, tho some weather men predict a cold winter to follow.

We look back on the summer with few pleasant memories. Unless vacationists fled north, they could have no pleasure. Heat burned out their enthusiasm and they had no desire to go places and do things. Even rest was impossible.

The epidemic of colds which has been in vogue the past two weeks found the people in a weakened condition. They were so exhausted from the heat that any evil germ that came along found them ready prey. They can blame the summer weather for part of their misery now, as if they had not been miserable enough while it was so hot.

All this furnishes a reason why nobody is shedding tears over the passing of summer. But perhaps the main reason for the absence of copious grief is that seasonal dates mean little in our lives anyway and most of us would never have realized summer was gone until we saw the first frost.

Copyright Came From Irish

St. Louis Globe-Democrat
It has long been supposed that copyright had its origin in the facility for multiplying copies created by the invention of printing. The late George Haven Putnam, in his book on the copyright, says, as do other authors, that the first books registered with the royal patent office as property which could not be "copied and sold without the permission of the owner" were during the reign of Queen Anne.

However, it appears that the principle of copyright originated, not in England, but in Ireland. Sir Edward German, opening the new building of the Performing Rights Society in London the other day, said the principle was established centuries earlier in the ancient kingdom of Tara. In this kingdom were two monasteries and they competed for the "tourist trade of the day." In one monastery lived an artistic monk who designed a beautiful psalter, which so pleased the abbot that he hung it over the altar.

People went in large numbers to see it and the monks at the other monastery wondered at the decline of their visitors. "When the abbot was told about the psalter he ordered an exact copy. The abbot of the first monastery then appealed to the king, whose judgment was "to every cow her calf" and ordered that the infringing copy should be destroyed. Thus was first established the principle of copyright, which is now recognized throughout the world.

Copyright has been attacked as a monopoly, but the argument that a man's work is as much his as his house or his money has prevailed. And it is only right that authors of best sellers and other literary compositions should have such protection. "To every cow her calf."

SO THEY SAY

My deduction from my talk with Minister of Economics Schacht is that things in Germany will be worse before they get better.
—Frank Arthur Vanderlip, financier.

It is quite clear that in my case the Treasury is not so much interested in the collection of revenue as in attempting to discredit me.
—Andrew Mellon, former secretary of the Treasury.

The recovery isn't following the program; the program is following the recovery.
—Frank R. Kent, political writer.

Just saying that little word "yes" to a simple question has completely changed my world.
—Princess Marina of Greece, engaged to Prince George of England.

The New Deal in Washington

Munitions Probe Is Shocking Jolt to Diplomatic Corps . . . And a Boon to Peace League of Women . . . New Road Brings Tourist Harvest Vision to Mexico . . . Communist Daily Claims Profit in Strike.

During the absence on vacation of Rodney Dutcher, Journal-Courier Washington correspondent, Willis Thornton will write the daily Washington column.

Washington—Life for the foreign diplomatic set has been just a horrible nightmare ever since the Senate Munitions committee laid the ethics of the armament business out on the operating table and started wielding the scalpel.

Foreign attaches usually put in a tough day's work featured by sipping a little weak tea or an occasional cocktail in the lounge of the Mayflower or Shoreham.

Now they are suddenly deluged with mail, telephone, and personal calls from countrymen all heated up at the assertions before the committee that homeland officials suffer from chronic cacethos palmi, or itching palm. At the British embassy, where the name of his majesty is never even mentioned except possibly in a breathless and reverent toast over a bottle of old hunting port, the foreign attaches practically swooned in rows at the rude suggestion that the king wasn't above helping the British munitions firms to turn an honest dollar.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, led a long file of lesser diplomats with a protest that was described as "more hurt than angry."

Some of the diplomatic folks actually had to cut short their three-month holiday at the shore to handle the squawks of indignant fellow citizens. Some of the few who sport a sense of humor sat back in their cavernous chancelleries and waited the next revelations with a grim smile that meant "Huh! You're telling us!"

But most winced and were really shocked, for these one-syllable words aren't used in diplomatic language.

Hull's "in the Middle"

Meanwhile, poor Secretary of State Hull, who has labored mightily for greater goodwill between the Americas, had to take the rap for a situation for which he was in no way responsible.

It's expected that as a result of his agitated conferences with the Nye committee, there will be less naming of names in future. But the investigation will go on.

People close to the arms situation here feel that America can just kiss goodby to most of its foreign arms business now. For who wants to deal with a company whose confidential correspondence is likely to be shouted to the cockeyed wind at any time?

Nobody, especially if there has been a judicious spreading of palm-oil in the deals.

Right Down Peace Alley

Don't think the peace organizations aren't making the most of the arms revelations either. The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom is just starting a "Congressional Caravan" out to tour the country and impress its cause on congressional candidates.

And the speakers are ordered to put all steam on the revelations of the munitions racket.

Mexico Visions Harvest

That new all-weather road from the Texas border to Mexico City won't be ready for formal opening until February or March. Mexico's counting on this to be a big thing next summer—her first chance to share in the millions that American auto tourists fling about every year.

And it'll be America's first chance to "go abroad" to a really foreign country (Canada's not considered foreign any more) in the family flivver.

Secretary Hull will probably go to Laredo (American terminus of the road) himself for the formal dedication.

Communists Claim Boom

Whether the Communist influence is strong in the textile strike may be indicated by the fact that the Daily Worker, party organ, claims an increase of 10,000 in circulation to 30,000 since the strike, mostly in textile centers. . . . Christmas is coming. The Postoffice Department has already instructed all postmasters to see that they have plenty of money-order forms to see them through the holidays. . . . One reason why several of the venerable supreme court justices who are eligible to retire don't: they want to wind up their careers in the magnificent new court building now nearing completion. . . . Deets Pickett, Methodist church champion of prohibition, got pretty fancy in his latest speech denouncing repeal. He said: "We have been cozened and bejaped, not to say gulled and swindled." Harsh words, Deets!

MRS. GERTRUDE FUNK ATTENDS CHRISTIAN CHURCH CONVENTION

Mrs. Gertrude Funk, superintendent of the Christian Home for the Aged, has been in Carbondale this week attending the annual state convention of Christian churches. Dr. G. Bromley Duncan, president of DePaul university, was the principal speaker.

Dr. William F. Rothenburger, president of the International Convention, also appeared on the program, as did also Dr. Jennie Fleming, missionary from India.

Future of Country Rests with Voters, Says Judge Wright

If the voters will properly consider the issues before them and use their sober judgment at elections this country will be safe and its perpetuity will be assured, said Judge Walter W. Wright of this city in an address on the U. S. Constitution at the Thursday luncheon of the local Kiwanis club. The program had been arranged for the purpose of observing Constitution Week.

Judge Wright said he did not believe this country could be saved by any political party—its destinies will not be determined by the Republicans or Democrats but by the kind and ability of men the voters place in office.

In speaking of the Constitution, Judge Wright said our forefathers in framing this document devised checks and balances to prevent abuses of the rights of the American people. These balances were vested in the three governmental bodies, executive, legislative, and judicial. So long as the supreme court acts on the legality of all acts of the other two bodies American people have nothing to fear insofar as the Constitution is concerned.

The danger to America is not the danger inherent in the Constitution under which we live, said the speaker. "We live under two constitutions in this state, the United States and the Illinois constitutions." There are some persons who say the Constitution is old and antiquated, said Judge Wright, but it is his opinion that it is adequate for present day demands.

The danger now, he continued, is in the unrest that prevails in the world. This danger tends to a possible overthrow of government and the scrapping of the Constitution. The rights enjoyed by the people of the United States are priceless, but the owners of these rights have been indifferent to these privileges. We have been too concerned with gaining wealth, he said.

The danger confronting the American people is their inappreciation of local government. They are too prone to think in terms of national government and overlook local government. The vital thing in government is local, the most humble office being very important.

In continuing his talk on government, Judge Wright said there is too much encroachment of the executive on the legislative body in state government. He expressed the hope that the time will come when the people will act to check the acts of the executive in dominating the legislative body.

RETURNS TO TEXAS

William McCabe left Thursday for his home in San Antonio, Texas, after having been called to Murrayville several days ago by the death of his sister, Miss Minnie McCabe.

WILL ROGERS says:

To the Editor of the Journal and Courier:
Edinburgh, Sept. 20.—You get these Scotchmen wrong. Why they are the most liberal and hospitable people you ever saw. Course I have to carry an interpreter to tell me what they say. But they are awfully friendly.

Grouse is Scotland's principal export. You got to rent a castle. Then rent some drivers to drive the grouse by the castle. Then the grouse been shot at so much they know just about who can hit em and who cant. Its a mess with the grouse and the Scotchmen work together and the Americans and the Englishmen pay the bill.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

Carl Werner Will Take New Position

Carl Werner, for several years connected with the physical education department of the Illinois School for the Blind here, will report to the State hospital at Elgin Monday where he has been appointed recreational director.

Mr. Werner attended Illinois college while working part time at the state school, graduating from I. C. last spring. He is well qualified for his new position as he has had considerable experience in school and Y. M. C. A. recreational work.

Wabash Employee of Naples Passes Away

Bluffs—Raymond C. Hatfield, 38, a resident of the Naples community, passed away at 12:35 o'clock this morning at the Wabash hospital in Decatur, after an illness of several weeks. He was employed as a telegraph operator on the Wabash and frequently worked at Bluffs.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hatfield, his wife Margaret, and three children, Mary, Charles and Warren, all residing at Naples. He leaves also one sister, Mrs. Cecil Bagby of Detroit, Mich.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete and will be announced later.

Open Circuit Court in Jersey Monday

Jerseyville—The September term of the circuit court of Jersey county will convene Monday, September 24th, at the court house in Jerseyville. Judge Victor Hemphill of Carlinville will be the presiding jurist.

On the criminal docket are listed twelve cases and of that number one is that of the People of the State of Illinois vs. Abraham Dean, charged with arson.

Dean, thirteen year old, Jerseyville boy, was held for setting two fires at the Orpheum theatre within a week. Following his arrest last spring on the charge he made a confession to local officials that he had set both of the fires.

On the Common Law Docket there are sixteen cases. Four of the cases are recent filings.

Seven Divorce Cases
The Chancery Docket has seventy-six cases of which number eighteen are new cases since the March term of the court. Seven divorce actions are pending on this docket.

The grand jury will convene on the opening day of court and will be composed of the following members: C. K. Cockrell, Ray Snell, Robert King, Lee Massey, Rudolph Barringer, Joe Gibbons, Peter Michael, Warren Grizzle, Arthur R. Rich, Cleve Tucker, Frank Breitwieser, George Clark, Lawrence Rawlings, Estel Fraley, W. J. Cresswell, August Federle, Edward Wheaton, William Harding, J. P. Wedding, Frank Duncan, Leo Burns, Joe Rice, Tony Belserman.

The petit jury will report Monday for service and will consist of the following venire: L. Klunk, T. L. Conklin, W. O. Donham, Frank Bush, Leo Engel, Martin Long, Charles Kennedy, Perry Randolph, Charles Ringhausen, R. E. Taylor, Wesley U. Gibson, Charles Chappie, Logan Clendenny, Charles Hagen, Oscar Groppe, Jasper Cruil, William Suddeth, Jessie Lewis, Ray Corey, Steve Healey, George Brainerd, Thomas O'Keeffe, W. O. HERE'S A WAY TO DO REAL CHARITY

Family Needs Stove for Warmth and Cooking

Facing winter without even a stove to provide warmth or to cook upon, a Jacksonville family is battling for existence under more than one handicap.

The father is physically unable to work. The mother's time is occupied with the care of five small children. Their home is scantily furnished. Their food is being provided by the Illinois Emergency Relief.

But there is no stove of any kind in the home. The mother slips away to a neighbor's and through their kindness prepares some of the meals over a fire. But the menu at her home consists largely of cold food.

There probably is more than one family in Jacksonville which has a discarded stove that still is serviceable. To place such a stove at the disposal of this needy family would be a real act of charity.

Either a range or heating stove would be a blessing to this family.

Call Miss Johnson at the Emergency Relief headquarters, telephone 26, if you wish to provide an old stove for this family.

ENDS BODY ODOR Leaves No After-Smell

It isn't the smell of a soap that gets you clean—it's the lather. Ordinary toilet soap don't lather freely enough in this hard water. Often they yield only a sticky soap curd that dams up stale perspiration instead of removing it. Kirk's Castile, a 100% pure vegetable oil soap, gives oceans of lather even in hard, cold water—goes deep into pores and sets free the stale perspiration curds. Instantly your body is fresh and odorless! Try Kirk's today. A 50% larger cake at a record low price!

CHAPIN CHRISTIAN CHURCH NOTES

We are expecting a greatly increased audience next Lord's day.

At the celebration of "Booster Day," which occurred Wednesday, Sept. 19, it was the "Sunbeam Class" that took first prize for the prettiest float. Worthy mention should be made of the "Gleaners' Class" and "Willing Workers" who contributed largely to interest and beauty of the Parade.

While we've had an increase in attendance at Bible School, each week since the close of the hot season, our attendance is far below what it should be. Many have given promises to return to the "Christian Endeavor" Sunday evening, which we feel confident will be made good.

We wish to urge you to be present at worship both morning and evening, Sunday, Sept. 23rd. There will be special music at the morning service, a duet by Frank Calloway and Fred Shultis, entitled, "Walk Beside me, O My Savior."

The subject of the morning address will be, "The Message the Disciples Could Not Bear." Evening, "Crime in the Germ."

Latest Styles in Furniture Shown

Furniture received its share of display in the autumn opening Wednesday night, with many beautiful fashions in new home furnishings shown.

Andre & Andre displayed a window of American oriental rugs which attracted much attention. The patterns were lively, and the colors of excellent hue. Another display in this store was of a modern living room suite of rep weave tapestry in chocolate brown, with loose cushions of down. The accessories for this display were in bone white and chocolate brown. Modern lamps shown included a set of four—the junior, table, bridge and reflector styles, completing the group. These were of chrome and ebony, with parchment shades.

Gustine's display included new types in all wave radio receiving sets in all sizes. A new low type of lounging chair of mahogany, upholstered with figured tapestry was shown. New living room suites with the pillow arms, were of mohair frize in moss green. An attractive number in furnishings was a splinet desk of mahogany, with cane seated chair.

Hopper & Ham's display included a beautiful maple finished bedroom suite in modernistic styling, with vanity, chest, bed and bench. The trimmings were in ivory. Lamps of colonial type were also displayed. New modernistic heaters for the home to add color and comfort, were among the attractive lines of home furnishings displayed.

Montgomery Ward's display of home furnishings included lines for refurbishing and remodeling the home. The displays were complete and novel, and showed a variety of fixtures which might make any home more modern and livable.

Hardware stores also displayed fall lines of wanted merchandise, in endless variety.

ELECT OFFICERS AT MEETING OF SOCIETY

The Hebron Ladies' Aid was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Lyman Fox Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Robert Barnes. Mrs. Charles Curtiss led the devotional exercises assisted by Rev. Geo. M. Hayes.

Election of officers resulted in Mrs. Albert Swain being chosen for president; Mrs. Edgar Shibe, vice president; Mrs. Robert Barnes, secretary; Mrs. Charles Robinson, treasurer.

Mrs. Harold Upchurch was program leader for the afternoon, which was rendered as follows:

Song, "I Love to Tell the Story."

Reading, "Along the Garden Path" by Mrs. Otis Keltner.

Reading, "A Short Story by Mrs. Harold Upchurch."

Song, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

During the social period Mrs. Fox, who was assisted by Miss Mary Louise Fox served very delicious refreshments. There were 18 members present.

Mrs. Harry Martin, Mrs. Cosby Lewis and Mrs. C. C. Smith were guests of Mrs. Fox.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Estelle Curtiss, Oct. 17.

Gen. Smedley Butler Will Be Speaker at Beardstown Festival

Beardstown—The Veterans of Foreign Wars, Beardstown post have secured the services of three nationally known men as speakers during the fall festival to be held here Sept. 20, 21, 22, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

U. S. Senator William H. Dieterich of Beardstown; Commander James E. Van Zandt of the V. F. W. and Major General Smedley D. Butler will speak on Saturday. Senator Dieterich, now in Washington, will speak on Saturday.

Thursday will be marked by a parade led by the high school band. Prizes for pets will be awarded. The pupils of Mrs. Alice Marie Hatt's dance studio will furnish program numbers later in the day.

Friday will be Farmers' day and numerous contests will be enjoyed and prizes awarded. Dr. Paul Johnson, authority and speaker on farm affairs will address the audience at 3 p. m. in the city park. In the evening Mrs. Hazelton's dance pupils will give a "Century of Progress" program.

Saturday will be Veterans' day and a large group of out-of-town veterans is expected. A reception for the distinguished guests will be held at the Park hotel and a luncheon served at 11:15 at which local businessmen and citizens will also be present.

L. G. Schaeffer, editor of the Beardstown Illinoian Star, will be toastmaster. Guests of prominence during Saturday's celebration also include the Quincy, Illinois, Veterans post, a famous drill team; State Commander Amos M. Sharp of Decatur, and State Adjutant C. E. Wellman of Springfield.

E. R. Lewis, commander of the Beardstown Guthrie-Pierce post, together with a committee of veterans, is in charge of the three day program.

Elect Freshmen Officers. Officer to serve the Freshman class of Beardstown high school have been elected as follows: Jack Hagerty, president; George Wessel, vice president; Homer Welch, secretary; Jim Doyle, treasurer; Irene Patterson, girls social committee; Frank Wicher, boys' social committee. Miss Ariel Swodes is class sponsor.

The Freshmen are the second class to select officers for the year. The Seniors have their new officers at work on class business already. The Juniors are electing officers today. The Sophomores according to the class constitution will probably not hold their election until October.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson were business callers in Virginia Tuesday afternoon. They were accompanied by Mrs. Ellen Crater, who will visit with her granddaughter, Mrs. Helen Osmer Peterson and family there.

Word has been received here by Mr. and Mrs. John Goodell of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Goodell at the Blessing hospital, Quincy, Ill., Sunday, Sept. 16.

Band Concert at H. S.

The Beardstown high school band, directed by Lee W. Peterson will give the first concert of the school year Friday evening, Sept. 21. One hundred and forty band members will take part in the program in the auditorium and several guest musicians will lend their services.

Arthur Harris of Quincy, winner of state and national contests, will play a cornet solo. Arthur Schuchow, Hobert, Ind., national clarinet solo winner, will play clarinet numbers, and Arthur Knippenberg of Beardstown, will sing a vocal solo.

The high school group is working to give a fine performance and to make money enough to buy some brand band instruments such as a marimba which would add much to the rendition of some of their musical numbers to be studied this year.

Safety Posters are Given by Auto Club

The Jacksonville Automobile Club this week placed the new safety posters in all the public and parochial schools of the city, as there is going to be an extensive drive by the American Automobile Association on safety. The Jacksonville club has always been very active in this kind of work and appreciate the cooperation of the schools.

Route 104 between Waverly and Franklin is opened to about one-half mile from Franklin, and this half-mile stretch is closed.

Columbus, Ohio is 403 miles via US-36 to Indianapolis and US-40 to Columbus. All paved.

Fort Wayne, Indiana is 328 miles via US-36 to Springfield; US-66 to Chicago and US-24 to Fort Wayne. This is also a good route to Cleveland, Ohio, by continuing on US-24 to Napoleon, Ohio and thence on US-6 to Cleveland.

Champaign, Ill. is 126 miles via US-36 to Springfield; US-66 to Lincoln and No. 120 out of there to the junction of No. 10 near Champaign and thence on No. 10. All paved and a very fast route.

Aviation Officials Explain German Purchases

How Germany, since Hitler's ascendancy to power, has become the heaviest purchaser of airplane motors from Pratt and Whitney Airplane Co., manufacturers of engines, was revealed in a sensational session of the Senate Munitions Inquiry in Washington, D. C. Seated at right are three aviation officials who testified. Left to right are: Francis H. Love, director of United Aircraft and Transport Corp.; Donald L. Brown, president of Pratt and Whitney; and Charles W. Deeds, vice president of the firm. They asserted that the motors were purchased for commercial purposes, but admitted they could be used in military aircraft.

KINNEY'S SHOES ARE VIEWED IN OPENING

Among the displays of fall footwear viewed by the public Wednesday night were those of Kinney's shoe store, south side square. Among the styles featured were a half dozen of Paris-designed shoes. A high riding gore pump in black suede with patent leather trim, a brown suede oxford with shiny brown patent inserts and a black suede 2-button strap with patent trim were all good numbers shown. Others were a fabric shoe in a tie of brown gabardine trimmed with brown calf, a one eyelet tie in brown kid and a black suede sandal with spike heel.

50 YEARS A MARTYR TO CONSTIPATION

But Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brought Welcome Relief

Read this splendid letter from Mrs. Haynes:

"For 50 years I have been a martyr to constipation. Have tried every remedy under the sun.

"One day I read an account of some one who had been relieved by ALL-BRAN, but I thought 'What was the use of me trying anything more when all else had failed?'

"A while after, I read it again. That time I thought I would try it, it would do no harm anyway.

"I began with a small dish of your ALL-BRAN for breakfast, and wonderful to say, I never need to take any physic at all now. How I wish other poor sufferers from constipation could be persuaded to try it."—Mrs. Sarah Haynes, 138 Cedarwood Terrace, Rochester, N. Y.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. Also iron for the blood.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. It's so much safer than taking patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

MRS. A. W. MORSE OF CHANDLERVILLE IS HOSTESS AT PARTY

Chandlerville—Mrs. A. W. Morse entertained Friday afternoon at her home in Virginia. Sixteen members of the Chandlerville Afternoon Bridge club attended. A one o'clock luncheon was served at tables decorated with fall garden flowers and harmonizing bridge accessories. At five o'clock highest scores were held by Mrs. W. W. Ritchie and Mrs. J. H. Miller. The travelling prize was stopped by Mrs. M. O. Aney and Miss Annette Morse also won an award. Virginia guests were Mrs. George Widmayer and Miss Iva Lancaster.

News Notes

Mrs. Charles Amant entertained at contract at her home Thursday evening.

Mrs. John Anderson entertained Thursday afternoon at her home assisted by Mrs. Ivan Baxter and Mrs. Harry Anderson in honor of Mrs. Carroll Anderson. A shower of household utensils was made by the younger ladies for the new housekeeping interests of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

In the evening a group of older friends and neighbors met, bringing a second shower of remembrances. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Anderson will make their home in Chandlerville where Mr. Anderson has always lived. Mrs. Anderson was formerly Miss Rele Van-Elten of this city.

Rev. F. P. Bonnefont attended the M. E. conference at Champaign.

Miss Eula Rithorn left Saturday for western Michigan Normal in Kalamazoo.

High school class officials have been selected as follows: Miss Dorothy Wilson, senior class adviser; Coach Mullin, junior class adviser; Miss Lucy Agger, sophomore class adviser; and Miss Helen Stewart, freshman adviser. Enrollment in both high and grade school exceeds that of last year.

FRIENDS GATHER AT HOME OF GEO. RUST

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 18, a number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rust in Mound Heights and enjoyed a wiener roast. The evening was spent in games and square dancing.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Brown and children; Mr. and Mrs. Jake Landers and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. W. Bell; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crawford and son and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Probasco and daughter; Simon Hickey; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard and niece, Irene; John Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. James Foster and son, and Mr. and Mrs. George Rust.

Fifth Fox and Coon Hound Meet at Rees Grove Sept. 25, 26, 27

The fifth annual meet of the Morgan County Fox and Coon Hound club will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of next week in the Rees grove in the south part of the county. Plans are under way for fox chase, bench show, dog races, and many other sporting events.

There will be entertainment each evening. Tuesday will be Republican night, Wednesday Democrat night, and Thursday everybody's night. Candidates will speak from 7 to 8 o'clock Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, and on Thursday there will be a special musical and literary program.

At 7:30 o'clock each evening there will be a fox chase in the grove. At 8 o'clock Wednesday morning a dog race is planned, with prizes for the winning dogs. The bench show will be Thursday afternoon.

Good dogs are expected from everywhere in the county and from surrounding kennels. This will be one season when the old-fashioned "haun dawg" will have his day, and if he is a good dog he will have three days and perhaps a trophy or two.

But the man, as well as the dog, will have an opportunity to show his prowess. He may blow his horn and receive honor for it if his blast is judged best in the horn-blowing contest. Horseshoe pitching will also be in vogue, along with other contests and games of interest. The meet is held as a sporting event for men who abound in red blood and physical skill.

Salvation Army is Active in Service

During the past year the Salvation Army did a lot of constructive work in Jacksonville and Morgan county, even though it had very little money with which to do it. Help was given to a number of transients in food and lodging and, in some cases, transportation in moving them on their way, thus taking a tax burden off the local community, giving furniture and house furnishings to families not even having a table on which to place the little food they could get or a bed to sleep in; giving Christmas dinner to a number of poor families; taking care of unfortunate girls; visiting many homes and giving service such as sitting up with the sick, preparing meals for invalids, settling domestic troubles and doing a lot of other things. The ultimate aim of it all is to help each person or family to become self-reliant and self-supporting.

In the spiritual work about 100 open air and 150 indoor meetings were held. An excellent Young People's Salvation Army work is an integral part of the program and most of the attendants at the meetings receive very little moral or spiritual instruction elsewhere. In this brief review of some of the work the people can in some measure visualize the vital value of the Salvation Army in this community and Adjutant and Mrs. J. M. Frankman, the officers in charge, will meet the need any time.

The financing of this important work is supervised by an advisory board of leading citizens of Jacksonville, with J. A. Long, chairman; A. G. Gody, vice chairman; J. Chester Colton, secretary; and C. A. Johnson, treasurer. Around $3500 will be needed during the year ending next September 1st. Its constructive program has been due largely to the generosity of its many friends among all walks of life who contribute to its annual maintenance so that it may look through all the distressing circumstances that surround mankind and may use its strength to rescue and redeem all that is precious in humanity.

26 More Boys Will Be Sent to Camps

Morgan county now has 200 boys in CCC camps throughout the country, and is going to have more. Official notice arrived Thursday morning at Illinois Emergency Relief offices here to have an additional quota of 26 young men in readiness for departure to camps.

Nineteen of this number come under the regular fourth quota, while 7 more enlistments are made possible under the special drought quota.

Mrs. Tillie J. Kelly, director of relief, was advised that Capt. F. A. Metcalf of Springfield will be here during the first week of October to examine the applicants.

All of the young men will be selected from families now on the relief rolls. They will receive $30 per month while they are in the camps, $25 of this amount being set aside for their families.

Morgan county boys are now stationed in more than a dozen widely separated camps throughout the country, some being as far away as California and Oregon.

FUNERAL OF MASTERS CHILD IS CONDUCTED

Services for Patricia Anne Masters, eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Masters, were held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Gillham Funeral Home. Dr. M. L. Pontius of the Central Christian church officiated. Interment was made in Diamond Grove cemetery.

The flowers were cared for by Misses Mildred Mills, Gladys Mills and Mrs. Olive Kulmer.

Casket bearers were Thomas Ford, Harold Ford, Fred Ford and Roland Trotter.

R. L. Edlen of Meredosia was a business visitor here yesterday.

Among the Virginia visitors in the city Thursday was Frank B. Smith.

Seek Location for Post Office While Remodeling is Done

A call for bids on temporary quarters for the Jacksonville post office while the local federal building undergoes extensive remodeling, was issued Thursday by the post office department, through Postmaster W. A. Fay. Bids will be submitted to the postmaster and will be opened in his office at 2 p. m. on October 4.

Specifications for buildings which may be used as temporary post office headquarters may be secured at the post office. After being opened in this city, proposals will be forwarded to Washington for decision.

Nearly a year ago a similar call for bids was issued and three were submitted. These were rejected in Washington by postal officials.

The call for bids authorized by the procurement division of the U. S. Treasury is an indication that the post office remodeling project is about to start. The government has appropriated about $75,000 for remodeling purposes and the construction of an addition.

The extent of time necessary for the work has not been determined, so that there is no way of fixing the time the post office will be in a temporary location.

Space requirements as set forth by the post office department for temporary quarters include about 7730 net square feet of which 1250 square feet may be in the basement; entrance vestibule 50 square feet; public lobby 800 square feet; postmaster and assistant rooms 400 square feet; workroom 3800 square feet; money order, postal savings and registry 800 square feet; vaults 80 square feet and mailing vestibule 400 square feet.

There are a number of requirements such as to doors, platforms and drives.

PHILLIES DRUB CHICAGO CUBS

Philadelphia, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Rallying to score six runs in the eighth inning, the Phillies came from behind to wipe out a lead piled up by Chicago in the early frames and went ahead to score an ultimate 7 to 7 victory today.

Lon Warneke and Guy Bush were the victims of the Phillies' bats in the eighth. Warneke was removed after allowing the first four men to hit safely and Bush who relieved him was charged with the loss.

In the fourth, Gabby Hartnett smashed his 21st home run of the year into the left-field bleachers.

Boston, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The Cardinals continued their pennant drive with a double victory over the Braves 4 to 1 and 1 to 0 today as the clubs closed out their season's rivalry. The two triumphs put the Cards a half game closer to the Giants, leaving them 3½ games behind the league leaders.

Excellent pitching on the part of Tex Carleton and Bill Walker carried the Cards over today's difficulties in the fact of rather sparse hitting. Carleton limited the Braves to three hits in the opener to beat them for the sixth time this season, then Walker came through with a shutout although touched for eight blows, one more than the Cards made off Fred Frankhouse.

Ed Brandt's wildness proved costly to Boston in the first clash.

The only run in the afterpiece came in the second when singles by Collins, Delancey and Orsatti loaded the sacks and Collins scored on a force-out.

PICK NET TEAM FOR STATE MEET

Will Compete at Macomb Saturday For District Title And Place In The State Finals At Champaign

Six Jacksonville High School tennis players will go to Macomb tomorrow for the district tennis tournament. Elmer Lukeman and Bob Hamm, champion and runner-up respectively in the city tournament this summer, will compete in the singles with the teams of Ted Rammekamp-Warren Breeding and Ellsworth Black Jr. Billy Hemphill entering in the doubles.

The singles team was decided yesterday afternoon when Hamm walked off Bill Clark, the other contender for a singles position, by a score of 6-2, 6-2. The match was played on the MacMurray College courts.

In the doubles tryouts one upset occurred when the two underclassmen, Hemphill and Black, whipped the strong combination of John Bellatti and Dixon Benson to eliminate one of the teams which saw service in the last district meet. The other pair to play in this division are Ted Rammekamp and Warren Breeding, the school's number one team for the past year.

Jacksonville has won the district for the past several years. At the present time Bob Hamm is district champion. If the boys come through again this year they will go to Champaign a week from today to enter in the state tournament.

ATHLETICS TRIM WHITE SOX 6 TO 5

Chicago, Sept. 26.—(AP)—With Jimmy Foxx clouting his season's 43rd home run with one on in the first inning and Frank Higgins adding a four base blast in the fourth the Philadelphia Athletics continued their home run orgy today to beat the White Sox, 6 to 5, and sweep the five game series.

The game concluded the season's play between the teams with 13 victories for the Athletics and nine for the cellar Chicagoans.

"Keep Your Eyes on That Ball" Walker Says

All set for their opening football game of the season, Coach Frank Walker and his Crimsons will take the field Saturday afternoon at the high school field on the north side of the city to attempt another season similar to the one which ended last year with a record of seven games won and one lost.

Industry high will be the opening opponent. Walker is shown above telling some of the members of his squad some vital points about football.

FOOTBALL TEAMS TO OPEN SEASONS

Quincy to Visit Pittsfield and Beardstown Will be at White Hall Today—Greenfield and Pleasant Hill Blast Conference Lid.

Games Today
Winchester at Virginia.
Quincy at Pittsfield (night).

Games Saturday
Industry at J.H.S.
Greenfield at Pleasant Hill.
Virden at Carrollton.
Beardstown at White Hall.

Football teams in this section of the state will open their seasons this weekend and one game will be played in the Illinois Valley conference.

Winchester will help Virginia usher in football after two years this afternoon on the Virginia field, the two squads tangling in the opening game on their schedule. Winchester faces the prospect of going into the game without the only two lettermen who reported for football this year, and Virginia will have only one boy who has had any previous football experience.

Coach Chapman lost Priest through an injury two days ago and there was some doubt that Pie would be able to make the trip. Winchester has a small team, made up mostly of freshmen and sophomores this year, while Virginia promises to have a husky, although inexperienced team.

Although prospects have not been considered as any too rosy at Pittsfield, coach Johnny Tarwain has been bringing his squad along carefully and expects to be able to give Quincy a real tussle. Their game will be called at 7:45 under lights.

Beardstown will invade White Hall Saturday for the opening tilt on both schedules, and although the game does not mean anything in either the Illinois Valley or Spoon River conferences, there will be a lot of interest in the outcome.

Both White Hall and Beardstown are hoped to have outstanding teams this year. Beardstown is equipped with a lot of enthusiasm and expects to make up for a lack of veterans with a lot of pep. White Hall, on the other hand, always has had pep, and this year has a bunch of huskies to back up its enthusiasm.

Old Meets New

Coach Chlorus Hubbel will take his small but willing Greenfield team over to Pleasant Hill, where he will put his charges up against a bunch of boys, many of whom he coached last year while athletic director at Pleasant Hill. Coach Bruno Bierman will be making his bow in the conference, and will send out his team without benefit of a warm up contest.

Greenfield played Palmyra to a scoreless tie last Friday during a rain storm.

Carrollton will open its schedule with Virden, one of the stronger teams from the M.S.M. loop. Carrollton is another of the teams ranked as a strong contender for the Illinois Valley title this year, and Virden has been up near the top on top consistently for the past few years. Ira Fanning, Virden coach, formerly coached at Carrollton.

INDIANS WALLOP SENATORS 6 TO 1

Cleveland, O., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The Indians scattered six runs over five innings today to win the final game of their series with Washington, 6 to 1, behind the pitching of Mel Harder.

Each team had won two games previously in the current series. Today's victory enabled the Tribesmen to split even on the season with the Senators at 11 games each.

Earl Averill hit his 29th home run of the season in the first inning, netting him another $400 bonus. His 25th homer brought him $1,000 and each subsequent one has meant $400 more.

EXPECT 25,000 AT ILLINI-TECH GAME

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 18.—Youth will have its day in the University of Illinois stadium Sept. 29 when approximately 25,000 Boy Scouts and school children will be guests of the Athletic Association at the Bradley-Illinois football game.

Director George Huff has mailed letters to all county and city superintendents of schools and to principals of high schools extending the annual invitation to their charges. The invitation includes all grade and high school pupils in both public, parochial and private schools.

No tickets will be issued in advance but all pupils of grade or high school age will be admitted free at the gates. In cases of high school pupils of mature appearance it is suggested that they bring a note from their principal certifying that they are in school. Admission will be free only to the pupils themselves.

All Boy Scouts are also invited to attend the game as guests, the only requirement being a current registration card. Wearing of uniforms is not compulsory, but it is urged that Scouts wear them as a mark of honor. Alpha Phi Omega, national Scouting fraternity, will award an honor troop streamer to every troop in the parade which measures up to appropriate standards.

Upon arrival, Scoutmasters are requested to register their troops at the Armory. From 9 to 11 o'clock Saturday forenoon there will be a tour of the university. At 1:15 Scouts will report at the Armory and assemble at 1:30 o'clock for the parade to the stadium where they will march at 2:00 o'clock, after which they will perform their flag-raising ceremony.

Troops which desire to camp here Friday night may do so on the east stadium field, but must bring their own camping equipment including cots.

Notes.

Branch football ticket offices at St. Louis, Lincoln, Peoria, Springfield, Decatur, Bloomington and Moline sold out their first consignment of Army-Illinois game duets the first day and wired for more, also reporting a steady demand for Ohio State homecoming pasteborders.

Steve Polaski of Rockford, promising freshman guard in 1931, who was smashed up in an automobile accident the next summer, has returned in good physical condition to try for the Illinois team.

The mayor of Lincoln, Ill., has issued a proclamation setting Nov. 3 as Lincoln Day in the Illinois stadium and asking the city to shop early to enable stores to close so that all residents may join an automobile caravan to the campus. Captain Chuck Bennis and Halfback Frank Frochauer are Lincoln products. Frochauer is also captain of basketball.

The annual variety-freshman football game at Illinois Saturday afternoon will be played for the benefit of the funds for band trips and a small admission fee will be charged. Last year 2,000 paid twenty-five cents to see the traditional contest.

Red Grange, guest of honor at the Ohio State Homecoming game at Illinois Oct. 13, may fly to the campus Friday night to speak at a pep meeting.

The only Illinois team in history which won all its games and was not scored on was the 1910 squad, which tied for the championship with Minnesota. Otto Seiler dropkicked the team to victory against Chicago, Indiana and Syracuse. Now his son, Robert, a halfback at New Trier high school, is a freshman candidate at Illinois.

Clyde Patterson represented the Ebenezer neighborhood in the city yesterday.

Walker has not definitely decided upon his starting line-up yet, but judging from the combinations he has been using it probably will be Leonard McDonald and Harlan Eyre, ends; Mose Wicks and Bob Melvin, tackles; Ashton Muehlhausen and Bob Jager, guards; John Ward, center; Chuck DeWitt quarterback; Stanley Davis and Ted Wainwright, halfbacks; and Wiley Shawen fullback.

Trinity high's Roaring Rockets, undefeated for three years, will launch forth on a new season with a partially new line-up tonight on the Illinois College field at eight o'clock. When the stalwarts of Trinity high, Bloomington, come down here to assist in blowing the lid off the local football season.

Light both in the backfield and line, but faster, this year's Rockets have a big task cut out for them if they keep up with the record made by previous teams. Trinity, already tested in a game with St. Teresa where they battled to a scoreless tie, has the edge of the local club in experience.

With warm weather holding on, the Rockets are looking for a big crowd when they tear off the curtain of uncertainty that has hovered over their athletic program for the year. The State Hospital band has been lent to the school for the evening, and will provide the martial music accompanying football games.

Wearers O' the Green
Bristling in their new bright green shirts, the Rockets will take the field against the blue clad Trinity eleven with a line averaging 156 pounds and a backfield averaging 142 pounds.

Two boys who made names for themselves last year as platoon totes, "Skeets" Lawrence and "Mayor" Torricelli, will be the only veterans in the backfield.

Lacy was one of the outstanding linemen on Routt's team of last year, holding powerful backfields down with his small stature. Tapoock is another husky who stood out on Routt's team of last fall, along with Vincent Lawrence, center, who is playing his last year. Carl Weidocher, Springfield youth who weighs 180 pounds this year, has been shifted from sub-center last year to a first string tackle job this year.

Profit, a lad from Alexander who has been studying football here for the last couple years, will be on one of the other wings. "Red" Loneragan, cousin of Vincent's and a reserve last year, will be at the right guard position.

Trinity's feat of holding the powerful and heavy St. Teresa team to a scoreless tie stamped them as a tough opening assignment for the Rockets. They are led by the canny Luke Gleason, a member of last year's Trinity basketball team, with Tony Capodice and Eddie Cavallo in the halfback positions.

is marked 10 yards from the sideline while the high school field is marked 15 yards in from the sideline. Those present at last night's meeting were: M. G. Moore, Alexey; Fred R. Prusha, Robert E. Reesman, White Hall; A. H. Chapman, E. E. Mellon, Winchester; S. N. Atkinson, Woodson.

A large number of coaches and officials were present to hear the interpretations handed down this year on various changes in the code. The new forward pass rules, which permit four incomplete passes in the same series of downs without penalty, and the rule which permits a team to throw one incomplete pass into the end zone without losing the ball under the touchback ruling, were discussed at length as were changes in the rules governing kicked balls.

Differences in the college and high school code were pointed out. Most of the changes involve penalties, some of which are: The high school code provides that a ball kicked out of bounds twice on a kick-off or after a free kick shall be penalized a total of 10 yards, while the college code permits only one five yard penalty; the high school code permits the center to pass the ball either directly to one of the tackles or ends while it is prohibited in the college rules; illegal withdrawal or entry into the game is penalized 15 yards in high school and 25 yards in college games; and the college field inbounds spot is called here yesterday.

BROWNS DEFEAT RED SOX 4 TO 3

St. Louis, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox took a 3 to 2 lead over the Browns in the ninth inning today, but Jack Burns, St. Louis first baseman, hit a home run in the home half to score two runs and defeat the visitors, 4 to 3.

The game was a pitchers' battle between George Bleoholder for the Browns and Johnny Merena, Boston recruit, until the ninth.

JIM LONDOS RETAINS HIS WRESTLING TITLE

Harold S. "Mike" Vanderbilt Comes From Behind With His Rainbow to Beat Endeavour

By Edward J. Neil
Associated Press Sports Writer
Newport, R. I., Sept. 20.—(P)—A gambler of the sea, all his chips on the rolling board, Harold S. "Mike" Vanderbilt dived desperately with the winds today to score one of the most amazing triumphs in all the history of the America's cup.

He shot his snowy hulled Rainbow out of the sea haze and the smoky muck of the huge trailing fleet to overcome a lead of almost seven minutes in 15 miles and add three minutes and 26 seconds more for his first victory of the series over T. O. M. Sopwith's Blue Bolt challenger from Great Britain, Endeavour.

Not in the memory of the oldest sailors peering incredulously from the fringe of the astounding drama was there a recollection of anything like this ever taking place before in the history of the international racing classic that goes all the way back to 1851.

And tonight, instead of an all but conquerable lead of three straight victories, which she had by the mutual consent of all except Vanderbilt at the half way mark this afternoon, the Englishman's lead was only 2 to 1, with anything likely to happen now in the thrilling battle of the great sailing sloops.

Starting out today in typical rainbow weather—a breeze of only 4.8 statute miles an hour at the start nine miles southeast of Brenton light ship—for the 15 mile run to leeward and the beat back the same distance against the wind—the big cup defender gave a miserable display to the outward mark.

The air was fluffy, puffing out of the northeast, exactly the same sort of conditions under which Vanderbilt, in the first race last Saturday, pulled up a lead of almost a mile before the 5 1/2 hour time limit caught him two miles short of the finish line and made it "no contest."

Instead of taking the lead today, or even giving the swift running Endeavour a light of it, Rainbow slipped steadily astern in the run southwest by south toward a point off the southerly end of Block Island. They went over the line together in bright sunshine and a sparkling blue sea, both under mainsails and jibs, but under the maneuvering for the start was over, came the parachute spinners, the "Mac West" on Rainbow, where near the records. Rainbow's elapsed time was 4:35.34. Endeavour's 4:39.00.

So tonight, taking all things into consideration, Endeavour still was held a 2 to 1 favorite to win the series, though with one chance of light airs continuing Rainbow's chances admittedly are improved.

There will be no race tomorrow, as Sopwith asked for a postponement as soon as today's race was over. It is believed that he wishes to work out the problems his big reaching jib developed today.

minutes and 17 seconds after the start at 10:40 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time), with Rainbow six minutes and 38 seconds, about a mile of rolling sea, behind.

Once around the mark, Vanderbilt looked at the deal and made his choice. He went off to port looking for wind and soon found it—wind in gusts. And then with his big canvas jib he had set after rounding the mark pulling perfectly, the Rainbow started up. The wind had hauled around so that the trip home, instead of being a beat against the wind, was really a close reach with the breeze freshened to about eight knots, coming in southwest by south.

Almost before Sopwith realized what was happening, Rainbow came sliding upon his stern, and the wind, bouncing off the defender's sheets, was hitting back against Endeavour's sails, offsetting the drive from the other side. Sopwith had to go over on the port tack, to get away from him, and he lost valuable distance, not only there but coming about again after he was free.

Rainbow, with Sherman Hoyt, of New York, one of the defenders' after-guard, replacing Vanderbilt at the wheel, sailed steadily through and three miles past the turn was less than a hundred yards to weather of the challenger.

Even then, it took another special dispensation from the fates to bring Rainbow home in front. Sopwith wasn't getting the draw with a big reaching jib that Vanderbilt was enjoying with the Genoa, a big sail that billows out front. While Vanderbilt was able to sail close to the wind, barely able to get a straight course for the finish line without tacking, the Englishman's jib was drawn nowhere near so fine.

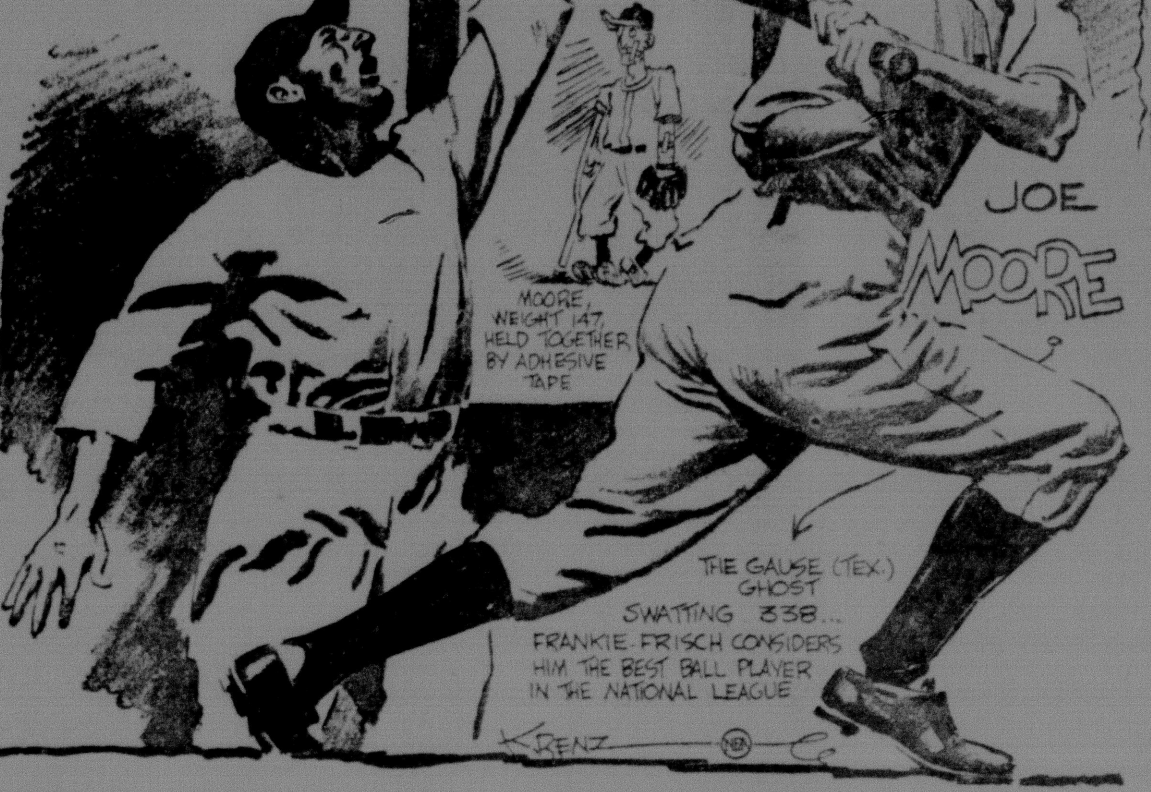

Sopwith had to tack again, and in coming around twice he again lost distance but he made certain of fetching the mark. All the way down through the stretch, with Rainbow now over half a mile in front, the only question worrying the Americans was whether Vanderbilt in the end would have to tack to get over the finish line between the Wilhelmshafen and the final buoy.

He hit it smack on the nose, at 3:15:34 p. m. with Endeavour crossing at 3:19:00, 3 minutes, 25 seconds later. Both times were slow and came now where near the records. Rainbow's elapsed time was 4:35.34. Endeavour's 4:39.00.

So tonight, taking all things into consideration, Endeavour still was held a 2 to 1 favorite to win the series, though with one chance of light airs continuing Rainbow's chances admittedly are improved.

There will be no race tomorrow, as Sopwith asked for a postponement as soon as today's race was over. It is believed that he wishes to work out the problems his big reaching jib developed today.

ILLINI ATTACK WILL CENTER ON AIR LANES FOR SCORING POINTS

Champaign, Ill.—(P)—Working under the handicap of a line that will be forced to concede weight to most of its opponents, the Illinois coaching staff is working with a backfield combination that may send any of three men to the back position to throw passes.

In the absence of "A. Lued, an Everhard, or a Laws" to lead a running offensive, the Illini attack will again be forced to concentrate on the air-lanes, and again the burden of forcing the ball down the field will fall on the steady aim of Jack Beynon and the versatility of the ends and backs in snaring the heavens.

Beynon was acclaimed as one of the leading passers of the country last season after his remarkable successes in the Army, Michigan and Ohio State games, but to throw some veil of secrecy around the maneuvers behind the line, Frank Froeschauer and Les Lindberg are being trained in the passing art.

Both Lindberg and Froeschauer have shown adeptness in throwing, but not to such an extent that either can crowd Beynon out of the ace position. Wilbur Henry, quarterback on the first string reserves, is also coming in for his share of attention and will be able to take up the burden if Beynon should be forced out by injuries.

Nortonville

Nortonville, Sept. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Seymour spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Gus Henry of Franklin and attended the ordination services at the Baptist church in the afternoon. Other Nortonville residents who attended the services were: Henry Whitlock, Jasper McNeely; Esther McLee and Charles Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper McNeely were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitlock. Afternoon guests in the Whitlock home were Mrs. Lewis Sooy, Mr. and Mrs. James Seymour of Franklin called on Mr. and Mrs. Van Seymour Sunday morning.

Mrs. Earl Miskel and Vanda Clawson of Springfield spent Wednesday night with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Clawson and family. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Grider spent Wednesday evening in the Clawson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Birdsell of Chicago arrived Friday night for a three weeks visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Seymour and daughter Elaine spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Van Seymour and son.

Mrs. Sarah Anderson received word that her daughter Mrs. Mamie Duncan and granddaughter Mrs. Ethel Graves arrived at their home in Cambria, California, Thursday. They left Nortonville on Saturday before traveling by motor.

Friends of Mrs. Fletcher Seymour are sorry to learn that she remains critically ill. We all hope for a more favorable report soon.

PENNEY EMPLOYEES ATTEND WIENER ROAST

The employees and their families of the J. C. Penney Co. were entertained at a wiener roast last night at Gravel Springs. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Mason and daughter Carol Ann; Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Carson and daughter Mary Ellen; Mrs. Meta Kennedy, Mary Frances Kennedy; Miss Nettie Smith, Miss Martha Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Holt and daughter Evelyn; Miss Helen Pabel; Robert Frisch, Mrs. Mattie Gilbert and Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Giffen and son Cecil.

KEN MAYNARD INJURED

Los Angeles, Sept. 20.—(P)—Injured in a stampede of mules while making a scene near Palmdale, Ken Maynard, star of western films, was confined to his home today with a twisted ankle. The accident occurred near the ranch of Noah Beery, screen actor.

Lee Griffin of Chandelville was a caller in Jacksonville yesterday.

Carl Hubbell Pitches and Slugs New York Giants to Victory Over Redlegs 4-3

New York, Sept. 20.—(P)—Carl Hubbell put on a one-man show today to lift the Giants to a 4 to 3 victory in their final struggle with the last-place Reds. The victory, gained in the ninth inning, enabled them to hold their loss to a half game in their race with the Cardinals, who won twice.

Hubbell not only pitched steadily in a duel with Paul Derringer but singled home the winning run in the ninth after Johnny Vergez had walked and taken second on an infield out. It was Hubbell's 21st victory of the year, but he nearly lost it when his wild throw in the sixth let the Reds score their third run.

BIG TEN COACHES IN CHEERFUL MOOD OVER MATERIAL AVAILABLE

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago.—(P)—Big Ten football coaches, who usually line up against the walling wall for a good public cry about this time every season, sported big smiles almost to a man today.

Not a coach was moaning; not a bear story was heard above the roar and thumping of the training. Optimism, a strange keynote in football, prevailed almost every camp.

Coach Harry Kipke of Michigan, a young man who can look pretty glum when the occasion arises, was cheerful. Howard Triplehorn and Bill Renner were going great as ball carriers in scrimmage. Willis Ward was catching passes, and Russell Oliver was tossing 'em in great style. Added to that was the good news that Harold Sears, 203 pound guard, had changed his mind about going to Yale in favor of Michigan.

At Northwestern, the Wildcats started to click in scrimmage with Cruick, Swisher, Potter and Devore behind the line—and how that Cruick rambled down the field! Coach Dick Hanley smiled with glee as he watched Bill Moie, sophomore candidate for left halfback, elude tacklers.

Nine players were on the hospital list at Illinois yesterday, among them co-captains Jack Beynon and Chuck Bennis, but Coach Bob Zupke was more than cheerful. All were expected back soon and the reserves made the wily "Zup" grin with their speed and intelligence.

Bernie Bierman of Minnesota stopped snapping at his regulars and bore down on the reserves, notably a fast stepping forward pass artist named George Rennie, on a comeback from last year, when he broke his leg. Rennie probably will solve the big problem to find a suitable reserve for "Pug" Lund, whose prowess was limited by too much playing last fall.

At Iowa, Dick Crayne got off one of his copyrighted runs for 70 yards and the reserves looked good.

Ohio State's defense against Indiana plays stopped the reserves cold in a brief crisp scrimmage.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy was so pleased with the progress made in signals and running plays that he gave his Chicago team a chance at new passing formations.

Duane Purvis was hitting his receivers with exceedingly accurate passes at Purdue; at Indiana, Coach Bo McMillan began to shape a good looking backfield with Huffman as quarterback, Don Veller and Charlie Burton at the halves, and Wendell Walker or Corbett Davis at fullback.

Coach Doc Spears was building a good defense at Wisconsin. He substituted freely to give his regulars a rest from hard scrimmages.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Morris spent Sunday evening at the home of E. L. Morris of Merrill.

Miss Grace Burch, Roy Burch and Carl Lanum of Hannibal, Mo., were here Sunday evening calling on C. H. Burch who has been ill for the past three weeks.

Charles Eldridge of Jacksonville spent last week visiting with his sister, Mrs. George Bradford.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Long and daughters were callers Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Nickel.

Clyde Francis of Frederic is working here now at the depot relieving Paul Greene who is working in Beards-town.

Miss Belle Smith of Washington, D. C. has been visiting her aunt, Mary A. Hamm.

Mrs. Dora Henley and Mrs. Nellie Clarke of Jacksonville visited Friday with Mrs. Henley's mother, Mrs. Hamm.

Mrs. Brooks of Pittsfield spent a few days last week with her daughter, Mrs. Warren Brookhouse.

The recital given by the music pupils of Miss Alma Detering was well attended. At the close of the program Miss Lucile Dietrick presented her with a large basket of lovely gladioli in behalf of the class. Much praise was given Miss Detering for her untiring efforts in working with her pupils.

A. D. Halst is working in Beards-town now.

E. L. Morris, Edward Morris and Miss May Morris of Merrill were callers Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Morris.

Ward Clement of the C. C. C. at Rock Port spent Sunday with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradford and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William Eldridge of Jacksonville.

Joe Brooks of Pittsfield visited relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. Otto Nickel was a Jacksonville caller Monday.

Mr. Herbert of Chapin will have charge of the evening worship services at the M. P. church Sunday evening.

Darold Loughary was taken to the Hospital this week.

Several cases of appendicitis have developed in the last few days. Miss Dorothy Mullens, Mrs. John Raybourne Jr. and Mr. E. G. Smith all reported recovering nicely.

Mrs. Lloyd Clement is spending a few days with her husband in Quincy.

Miss Gatha spent the week-end with her uncle and aunt of Prentice.

Chapin was represented here yesterday by Louis Boddy and Wilbur Williams.

Champion Defeats "Strangler" Lewis After 49 Minutes and 27 Seconds With Hammerlock

By Charles Dunkley.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—(P)—Ed Strangler Lewis, the old head hunter of the wrestling mat, failed in his efforts to regain the world's heavyweight championship tonight.

Before a record breaking crowd of 32,000, Lewis, graying and portly, went down to crushing defeat in his match with Jim Londos, generally recognized as title holder, under the floodlights at Wrigley Field, home of the Cubs. He was slammed to the mat with a crotch hold with Londos leaping on him like a cat to apply a punishing hammerlock and a three-quarters Nelson. Lewis gamely tried to squirm out of it, but fell victim to defeat after they had wrestled 49 minutes and 27 seconds.

Londos defeated Lewis with the first new hold that he applied to the aging warrior. He picked up the 240 pound Lewis, raised him over his head, and then slammed him over the mat like a ton of brick. Lewis attempted to squirm over on his stomach but Londos, agile and alert, quickly got to his side to secure a hammer lock, and then added a three-quarter Nelson.

Lewis groaned in agony and his face turned ashen white under the punishment. Londos had perfect leverage, and although Lewis rocked back and forth with pain and agony written on his face, he could not escape. Londos, with ever-increasing force, applied the crusher that forced his shoulders to the mat.

Previous to the victorious fall Lewis was the aggressor a dozen times, and was far out in front in points because of his aggressiveness.

Lewis shot his bolt after 30 minutes of tugging around the rings. He suddenly applied a series of his famous head locks, the deadly hold that usually brought him victory when he was the recognized champion. He brought Londos to the mat twice with headlocks, but they fell through the ropes and into the laps of spectators when he attempted to bring Londos to the mat for the third time.

The match was sponsored by the Chicago Tribune for charity.

Lewis, who had claimed to have defeated Londos 14 times in edgemoats ago, had been refused a seven years ago, had been refused a solemn meeting with the solemn looking Greek until they were brought together tonight. Lewis outweighed the champion 35 pounds, scaling 240 to 205 for Londos.

HARRY KIPKE THINKS WOLVERINES WILL BE WEAKER THIS SEASON

By MARLE OLIVER

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(P)—They're superstitious, says Harry Kipke, "those Big Ten coaches who mention Michigan as a championship possibility this fall."

"They believe in rabbits' feet, horse shoes, and looking at the new moon over the right shoulder, and they seem to think we own all the good luck. The fact is that the University of Michigan football team is not a logical choice to win the Western Conference title in 1934."

Having won or shared in the last four Big Ten football titles, the Wolverines naturally receive some mention when the championship is being "decided" before the season opens, but Kipke asserts that Michigan will lose "at least two, probably three, and perhaps four" games during 1934.

"Our scheduled will be harder, and we'll be softer, so that's the answer?" Kipke pointed out that most of his staves of 1933 now are alumni and sophomores or understudies must take their places.

But Michigan still has Willis Ward, the fastest man in Big Ten football.

to play right end, John Regecz to punt, and Bill Renner to pass the line will be the heaviest in Michigan football history. There are 13 letter-men available, 11 of them seniors. Most promising of the yearlings is Matthew Pataneil, a slashing type of end from Elkhart, Ind. Matt is 6 feet, 1 inch tall and weighs 201 pounds.

"We'll have a good outfit," says Kipke, "but not a world beater."

Lights flicked on at the Illinois College field last night, and it wasn't long before a large crowd of people gathered around to watch this year's Routt high team go through their battle maneuvers.

And when we say maneuvers, we mean just that. These boys have a lot of what appears to be fancy stuff, but every move they make has a meaning all its own.

Coaches gathered round last night to hear the changes in the football code discussed at Jacksonville high.

E. H. Mellon, who presided at the meeting, told us that football prospects at Winchester, his home, are worse this year than usual, but that from now on it appears that there is going to be a change. Most of this year's team is made up of freshmen and sophomores.

We hear reports from other persons who have been around visiting football camps that the story is about the same everywhere. Almost every coach in this vicinity is deprecating the lack of material and pointing out that in a couple years they are going to have the team they have been thinking about for some time.

We believe the coaches too. The number of candidates out for football squads in colleges throughout the state will bear out their claims. Large numbers of freshmen are reporting

DEFENDS TITLE

Liverpool, Eng., Sept. 20.—(P)—Freddie Miller successfully defended his claim to the world's featherweight title tonight when he easily outpointed Nel Tarleton, British champion, in a 15-round bout before a crowd of 50,000, the largest ever to attend a boxing match in Great Britain.

Miller is recognized as the world's champion by the National Boxing Association while baby Arizmendi holds the title in the eyes of the New York State Athletic Commission.

the second floor nursery of his home in the lonely Soudan mountains of New Jersey.

Commissioner O'Ryan said "witnesses" identified Hauptmann as the man to whom the ransom was paid.

By this it was assumed the commissioner meant Dr. Condon.

Commissioner O'Ryan, in response to questions later tonight, said only that Hauptmann was "identified."

He declined at this time to say in what phase of the case the identification was made, or give details.

Seldom has a clew been traced so quickly to its denouement.

Walter Lyle, a filling station attendant in the Bronx, was given a $10 gold certificate Saturday by a man who ordered five gallons of gasoline.

"I remarked," Lyle said, "that you don't see many of these any more."

"The man replied that he had only a few more left."

Lyle recalled the presidential order for recall of gold and gold certificates.

He was suspicious and took the number of the automobile. Later, he turned the note over to police.

It was checked at the bank—again, one of the Lindbergh bills had turned up.

Of this phase of the apprehension the commissioner related.

"The operator of the gas station described the customer who passed the $10 gold certificate in an almost identical fashion as the one described by a Fordham shoe store proprietor."

In the Hauptmann house, O'Ryan said, a pair of shoes was found that had been purchased in this store.

Earlier the tracing of the tell-tale ransom bill had facilitated by suggestions that those receiving the bills mark either a street address or automobile license number on the bills.

Question: How Far Will a Dollar Stretch?

Answer: Almost as Far as You Want It To!

Making a dollar go farther is just another name for thrift, and thrifty shoppers are usually ad-shoppers. They know what they're going to buy—where to buy it—how much to pay—before they leave their front doors. They plan their shopping tours with the help of the Daily Journal and Courier.

Get the ad-shopping habit. It is the royal road to wise buying.

Daily JOURNAL and COURIER

of the one passing the ransom bill. This, apparently, had been done by the filling station operator.

"Securing the name and address of the owner of the automobile license number appearing on the bill," O'Ryan said, "the investigators kept the premises under surveillance."

"Because of the importance of the case and the danger of the least possible slip-up, the men acted with caution and at 9 a. m. Tuesday morning, Bruno Richard Hauptmann was seen to leave his residence in the automobile bearing the license which appeared on the bill and started toward Yorkville with the detectives following."

"When his car reached Tremont and Park avenue, the detectives halted Hauptmann's car, directed him to get out, and searching him, found another $20 gold certificate identified as part of the Lindbergh ransom."

"He was immediately taken back to his house and while questioned there admitted passing the $10 and $20 gold certificates found by the police. He denied, however, all knowledge of the Lindbergh ransom money."

"Meanwhile a search of the place was instituted and a pair of shoes located and identified by the Fordham Shoe Store proprietor."

The search was continued today. O'Ryan said, and $13,750 was found hidden under the floor of the garage and in the sash of the door."

From the many conflicting stories Hauptmann has told detectives," O'Ryan said, "we learned that he is 35 years old, born in Saxony, Germany, and after serving in the German army, stowed away on the Steamship Washington, arriving in the United States at New York in 1923."

"He stated he had odd jobs about the city until 1926, when he married and made his home in the Bronx."

"Strangely enough," he explained, "that shortly after the ransom money was paid, he quit working and devoted his time to trading in the stock market. He explained the money was the result of careful savings and the gold certificates as forgeries, shortly after President Roosevelt took office."

"However, in tracing back to the bank which he stated issued him the gold certificate, we got a blank denial of each phase of his story."

"Somewhat significant is an admission that he had been employed in the neighborhood of the Lindberghs' Hopewell home as a carpenter."

In addition, the detectives have established beyond question that he had access to a lumber yard where lumber bearing a peculiar mark similar to that found on the lumber in the ladder which was found at the scene of the kidnapping is to be had."

"Despite the fact that Hauptmann denied that he had a criminal record, I have just been advised that he admits he was on parole and escaped as a stowaway from Germany to prevent his return to prison there."

An indication of the imminence of further far-reaching developments was seen in brief comment from Hoover in response to questions about jurisdiction and charges to be preferred against Hauptmann."

"Other things are coming up which will have a bearing on this case, but will be discussed later."

we can't talk about them now. I'm leaving that all up to General O'Ryan."

O'Ryan specifically refused to answer a query as to what charge had been filed.

"Is this a murder case?" Commissioner O'Ryan was asked.

"It is a case with several phases. Otherwise I have no comment," O'Ryan said he would turn the case over to the Bronx District Attorney.

An attaché of that office, who was present, said with respect to jurisdiction that "the Bronx will cooperate with New Jersey."

In New Jersey, Governor Harry Moore—closely identified with the case from its inception—said he was informed extortion charges would be tentatively placed against the fugitive from Germany until extradition proceedings could start in New Jersey.

A $25,000 reward is still posted in Jersey for solution of the kidnapping. Around Hauptmann investigators found a web of pointed circumstances.

In all the ransom notes, the writing appeared to be that of a German or a person of German extraction. This was so on the ransom note left on the window sill. It was so on the note sent to "Jafsie" by which he made his first contact with the supposed kidnaper.

In the original note the Lindberghs were told good care would be taken of the child—the spelling began "gute." Compound words such as "sleep-insuit" also were employed.

There was an unconfirmed report the automobile driven by Hauptmann on the day of his arrest was identified as one stolen in New Jersey the day before the kidnapping. Police confirmed the fact of its theft, but would make no statement on the date it was stolen.

The 74-year-old professor, turned intermediary, first received a telephone call and then a note from the kidnappers which was checked against the original note together with other tokens convinced "Jafsie" he was dealing with the real abductors.

The night the ransom money was paid—a Lindbergh sat in an automobile but a block away—a note of directions written by the same person, was handed "Jafsie."

"Jafsie," who was called down to the Greenwich police station, where Hauptmann was held, soon after Hoover, O'Ryan and others came for conferences, also had said the person to whom he paid the ransom bills seemed to be Teutonic or Scandinavian.

The ransom note of direction, handed to "Jafsie" at the cemetery—after the final delivery was arranged through advertisements in the personal column of the Bronx Home News—led to a blind wall, the place where thousands of clues led in the long months of incessant search.

Accompanied by Dr. Condon and Colonel Henry Breckinridge, his personal attorney, Lindbergh flew to Martha's Vineyard the next day. They hoped to find the baby on board a boat described by the ransom recipient.

They found nothing.

Several weeks later, the baby was found dead in the woods five miles from the Hopewell home of the Lindberghs. His body was partially decomposed. He had been dead for some time and it was speculated that the baby died the same night he was abducted, either from a blow by a blunt instrument or, some thought, in an accidental fall from the arms of the kidnappers as the child was being conveyed down a ladder from the second floor nursery.

to send the 'stand-by' signal. That was at 3:15 a. m.

Alagna then told how on the fifth trip he "pleaded very strongly" with Capt. Warme. He told him that conditions in the radio room were unbearable and that the operator couldn't hold out much longer.

After several minutes, Alagna testified that Warme asked: "Can you send a message?" "That's what I'm here for," Alagna replied.

"Then send an SOS," the captain said.

FIND HEADLESS BODY OF GIRL

Chicago, Sept. 20.—(P)—Police were baffled tonight in attempts to determine the identity of the headless body of a girl found in fashionable Ravinia.

It was first believed from the general description of the body—now almost a skeleton—that the victim of either a brutal slaying or a suicide was that of Miss Ruth Olson, 17, who also used the name of Weber, but Carl Olson, father of the girl who has been missing since last September, viewed the body and said it was not that of his daughter.

Zigmund Rozodinski, 24, Evanston, questioned when it was believed the dead girl may have been Miss Olson. Highland Park was released. He had been questioned shortly after his return from California last year when it was reported Miss Olson left with him. He said at the time the girl went with "Hank Weber" who posed as her husband.

The failure of the Olsons to identify the clothing or the body left Highland Park and Evanston police without clues to the identity.

The body was found today by a mushroom picker.

McCarthy, the board said, has been compliance officer for Illinois.

SINCLAIR "EPIC" PLATFORM ADOPTED

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 20.—(P)—Upton Sinclair's "epic" plan which won him the Democratic nomination for governor of California was incorporated virtually in full in the platform adopted today by the Democratic state convention. Conservative opposition was routed.

A shouting, cheering body of delegates composed of party nominees chosen in the recent primary election accepted the plan, which Republicans and other political opposition had branded as radically socialist, by a vote of 113 to 4.

Dissenting Pastors in Germany Told to Join Nazi Churches

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER Associated Press Foreign Staff

Berlin.—(P)—Theophil Wurm, whose defiance of Reichsbishop Ludwig Muellemberg is a prisoner today in his own home.

By order of Dr. August Jaeger, powerful Nazi commissioner for Protestant churches in Prussia, police guarded the Stuttgart home of the churchman to prevent any attempt he might make to leave.

Dr. Jaeger in a foreign press conference on the Nazi state's plan to oppose any attempt to create a church independent of the state said, "Whatever opposition remains is the outgrowth of misunderstanding. Our duty is to go through national socialism's totality of ideas."

Church politics is not a matter for clergymen but for the highest church administration. This has nothing to do with the preaching of God's word."

On the Nazi theme of anti-semitism, Dr. Jaeger said, "The Jews kept the race pure by the methods now adopted in Germany. Germany will keep itself pure."

A further development in the Nazi fight against recalcitrant clergymen came with the announcement of Reichsbishop Mueller at Hanover that all opposition pastors become Nazis or get out.

Opposition belief that the state intends to dominate all churches was strengthened by the reichsbishop's statement urging state intervention to establish a united reich church, presumably including Catholics and Protestants, independent of Rome.

From Muellemberg came the word that Dr. Jaeger's edict not to recognize Wurm as his bishop is being ignored by 90 per cent of the clergymen under Wurm's jurisdiction.

Name Leon Trotsky in New Revolt Plot

By REX SMITH Madrid.—(P)—The name of Leon Trotsky, exiled leader of Soviet Russia, flashed into the picture today as a revolutionary uprising scheduled for daybreak proved abortive.

Rafael Salazar Alonso, minister of the interior, described plans for the rebellion as Trotsky's strategy, mixed with American gangsterism."

There have been persistent reports that Trotsky, ordered from France last April for revolutionary activities, had been seen in Catalonia recently. Attempts to learn his whereabouts through French officials proved unfruitful.

The "zero hour" for the outbreak passed under the vigilance of government guns and there were few signs of the threatened communist and socialist revolt.

Troops were vigilant in the provinces also but quiet was reported.

Authorities said the plot was revealed yesterday by the arrest of Francisco Ordonez, athletic coach at the University of Madrid, and the seizure of documents he carried.

New Substitute for Fodder is Reported

By HOWARD W. BLACKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor

Baltimore.—(P)—Two new cattle foods, one looking like a plug of tobacco, the other like Boston brown bread, both offering aid for stock feeding in drought, were announced today.

The plug is made of molasses and cottonseed meal; the Boston brown bread is made of molasses and corn meal. Both use a new scientific principle for mixing molasses, which has been for many years a cattle fattening food, but difficult to handle because of its stickiness.

CORN GROWERS MAY GET NEW INCREASED LOAN

A new corn loan is being offered farmers according to announcement made at the Farm Bureau offices Thursday. Farmers may now borrow 55 cents per bushel, an increase of ten cents over the loans of last year.

It was explained the present borrower must pledge corn on sale at the new rate after reinspection of the crib and collateral. If old borrowers had 45 cent loans last year, and desire new loans it is necessary to make application to the Morgan County Warehouse board, No. 66, pay off the 45 cent loans and get new loans of 55 cents per bushel.

Ape-Man Sought by Chicago Policemen

Chicago.—(P)—Two straight-shooting policemen set out today to pick up the trail of an "ape-man" moran.

For several days he has terrified women in several northside districts—dropping suddenly in their path from the lower limbs of trees where he waits. So shocked have the women been who have seen him, that the descriptions given police are confusing and contradictory.

But early yesterday—and police said they believed it may be the same man—a short stocky man of about 24 accosted six girls homeward bound from a club meeting.

Without a word, he lashed out with a pen-knife and fled. Miss Marie Griffin, 19, an attractive stenographer, clutched at her throat, and screamed. Five slashes were taken at a hospital to close the wound.

Supervising plain John Horan assigned extra men to six districts and selected two policemen as decoys. He said he would read the "ape man's" description to all officers at roll call.

JAMES M. CURLY RUNNING AHEAD

Boston, Sept. 20.—(P)—With his stronghold in the city of Boston, still largely to be heard from former Mayor James M. Curly, held a commanding lead for the Democratic nomination for Governor in today's Massachusetts primary election.

With more than one quarter of the state counted, Senator David I. Walsh (D) had been renominated and Lt. Gaspar Bacon apparently had taken the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Curly led his nearest opponent, Gen. Charles H. Cole, 28,451 to 20,057. As the early returns were counted.

Returns from 297 of 1,718 precincts gave Walsh a 23,477 to 4,856 lead over former Lt. Gov. Edward P. Barry for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Bacon had an early 2 to 1 lead over Frank Goodwin in the Republican race for the governor's nomination, boasting a plurality of 9,000.

SOCIALISTS BELIEVE TRICKERY PREVENTED PLACE UPON BALLOT

Chicago.—(P)—A claim that the Socialist party was kept off the Illinois ballot by "trickery-smoking of fraud" came today from John F. Sullivan, Cook county chairman, as state leaders of the party considered taking the affair to court.

Amendment on Farm Mortgage Act Faces Supreme Court Test

Washington.—(P)—The farm mortgage moratorium amendment—passed by Congress and approved by the president amid argument over constitutionality—today apparently was headed for a supreme court test.

The amendment to the national bankruptcy act was held unconstitutional yesterday in a finding by a United States District Judge, W. Calvin Chestnut, at Baltimore.

One of the co-authors of the amendment, Senator Frazier (R., N. D.) was on record, even before the Chestnut ruling, as believing an early decision would be requested of the supreme court. The district court decision, based upon dismissal of petitions filed by two Maryland farmers, was looked upon as starting the case along the route to the high court.

President Roosevelt, when he signed the Frazier-Lemke bill, agreed it was "loosely worded" in some respects and would have to be strengthened by subsequent amendments.

Representative Lemke, the other author of the measure, said in discussing the decision that "apparently this particular court is very corporation-minded."

When Mr. Roosevelt enacted the measure, he took cognizance of one argument against it with the comment that:

"It has been alleged that insurance companies and other mortgagees will suffer severely through the use of this law by farmers to evade payment of debts within their capacity to meet. I do not subscribe to these fears."

Whether the corporations proposed to take a direct hand in the court test of the amendment was not made known immediately.

CLAIM U.S. COMPANY WANTED COLOMBIA TO USE CHEMICAL UNITS

Washington.—(P)—A story of how an American poison gas manufacturer sought to persuade Colombia to form a chemical warfare unit in its army was ready for development today as the senate munitions investigation.

The committee called B. C. Goes, president of the United States Ordnance Engineers Company, of Cleveland, for questioning about reports that he presented to Colombian officials two years ago a plan for a division of chemical troops to be trained and equipped by him.

Information in the possession of investigators indicates that the plan involved the building and operation under his supervision in the Latin American republic of half a dozen factories to produce chlorine, mustard and other gases to arm the chemical personnel.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

CHAPTER XXXIX

On the way to tell Caroline the good news he planned how and where they should be married—in a town, of course, by a justice of the peace if Caroline did not object—less fuss—then they could go on to New York—and sail or motor from there to wherever they liked.

He jumped out of his car and ran gayly up the walk to the porch, pressed the doorbell button exuberantly and stood waiting impatiently to be admitted. It was Mrs. Stevenson who let him in and in answer to his eager inquiry about Caroline told him that Miss Rutledge was upstairs with her father.

"Mr. Rutledge is ill, sir. We've sent for the doctor. He was brought home at dinner time in a daze. He's very weak, sir."

"May I go up?" Howard snapped. Caroline appeared at the head of the stairs. "Please come up," she said in a frightened half whisper.

Howard was shocked when he saw the sick man. Philip appeared to have aged years in the past twenty-four hours. He was pallid and shrunken, with drawn lips and glazed eyes, in which there lingered a hint of terror.

Howard thought: "It's paresis!" But he said to Caroline: "Looks like a nervous breakdown. Don't worry. We'll have him right again in no time."

She went out of the room with him. When they were alone he swept her into his arms with a masterly force. "Darling," he whispered, "think of me a moment. I've waited so long for you. And now we can be married. Tomorrow. Don't let anything come between us again. Your father will be all right. We'll place him in a sanitarium. He needs good nursing, that's all. I've made all our plans—we're going away on our honeymoon. This is the only time I have—don't let anything spoil it."

Caroline pulled herself away from him. In her face joy struggled with distress. "Oh Howard, I'm so glad. You are all mine to love now."

"Nothing can keep us apart but you, dear. We could be married this afternoon if you would. But please, not later than tomorrow. My vacation begins then. Let's not waste a day of it. We'll go to Bermuda, Cuba, anywhere you like!"

Caroline sank back against him with a deep sigh. "I can't plan, dearest, until I hear what the doctor says about Father. If his life is in danger—if he needs me—I can't leave him."

His tone was quiet, not unusually emphatic, but Howard knew that to argue with her was useless. They went on downstairs and waited. He talked, going into details of their plans, saying he knew her father would quickly recover. But in his heart was a premonition of defeat.

The doctor pronounced Philip's condition critical, but not hopeless. A nervous and mental disorder brought on by worry and—he hesitated over saying it—depression. But the patient could be nursed back to health, he believed.

Howard sought with every persuasive argument at his command to induce Caroline to have her father removed to a sanitarium and go on with their plan to be married without delay.

Caroline asked for a week. If her father were better then she would leave him. Howard was constrained to accept her decision. Had he not feared that it would become known to his father he'd have asked her to marry there, or in some near-by town, and given up the wedding trip. Although the thought of a honeymoon spent in the house on Edge Street with his bride arising an invalid father, caused him to shudder. But he could not escape the nameless fear that he would lose the girl he loved. He'd have done anything to possess her, short of defying his father.

Three days later Gwendolyn returned to her father's house. Howard heard of it very shortly. He had told his father that he would like to postpone his vacation for a week in order to find someone to go on a motor trip with him. He did not go back to his so-called work at the factory. Mr. Dunsworth telephoned him from the office one morning before Howard had left the house and asked him to get over there as quickly as possible. Howard found him in a rage.

"Hell's popping!" he shouted the instant Howard had closed the door. "Why in heaven's name didn't you tell me the truth, you . . . you . . ."

Howard paled. "What the devil's he tried to say, but the words stuck in his throat."

"Yes, stand there and look like a dumb ox!" his father exploded. "You'll say something fast enough when old man Hoffmann gets his hands on you. So Gwendolyn was going to marry Freddy Somebody was she? And she wouldn't have a word to say against you?" The sneering, snarling voice whipped at Howard's ears like a lash. They were followed by a bitter, taunting laugh.

"Well, she's said it, my fine double-crossing son."

Howard stumbled to the nearest chair, sank into it limply. His father raved on.

"You didn't think of what would happen if she fell out with Freddy, did you? But that's just what happened. She told it all to Hoffmann, and believe me I got it from him. He went out of here a minute ago wild as a bull. And that's the end of us!"

Howard plucked out a handkerchief and wiped a wet brow. He was scared—but so far his father hadn't mentioned Caroline—perhaps Gwendolyn hadn't told everything.

"Well, what if she did break up with Freddy?" he asked with a weak defiance. "No reason why she couldn't tell about it now."

"None at all," his father agreed sarcastically, "and by the same token there was no reason why she shouldn't say that your neglect drove her into it in the first place."

He paused, and his voice fell to a low, savage, intensity as he added: "Because of your insane infatuation for that Rutledge girl!"

Howard flinched. Henry Dunsworth strode over and stood above him in a threatening attitude. "I've been a fool," he gritted between his teeth, "falling for your lies, but let me tell you this. I'm done with that. If you marry that girl you'll never get a penny of my money."

Howard threw up a hand in a negative gesture. "I haven't married her," he said hoarsely, "and I've been free for days. And you might remember that I stuck to Gwen when the very sight of her made me sick. Just to protect you. She's the one you ought to blame. She's had everything her own way. I could kill the little beast!"

"I'm blaming you. But go ahead and throw up everything for the daughter of an old drunken bum! They'll never touch a cent of my money."

A glint of light appeared in Howard's eyes. "You can't stand between me and Caroline just because Hoffmann's letting you down," he retorted. "It would be the same if it were any other girl. I won't give her up, I tell you. I love her. Doesn't that mean anything to you?"

"It means that you're a darn fool. But you can make your own choice. She got you into this—just about ruined us. I've got to sell now to Purcell at any price. But don't make any mistake about where you stand. You're practically broke. I know that. Spent all your grandmother's money. On that Rutledge girl, I suppose. You'll go out on your ear, flat if you marry her, so help me!"

Howard was licked. "O.K.," he said wearily and got up to go. "But I'll never forgive you for this!"

His father laughed. "It was Saturday. Howard went out to South Town and waited for Caroline to come home from work. She cried out in alarm at sight of him, but he gave her some fictitious story of witnessing a bad accident and Caroline accepted it. She mixed him a drink and tried to keep him talking about other things so that he would forget what he had seen."

She was feeling very happy. Her father was much improved. Howard compelled himself to show a proper interest in Philip's condition, but he did not speak of what it might mean to them.

Caroline was grateful for what she took to be his patience. She wanted the full week in which to make certain that her father's progress toward recovery would continue. And it would hurt all the more, she felt, if they must delay their marriage longer, to have made all their plans for it.

At the end of the week of waiting she announced to Howard, with radiant joy, that it would be safe to leave Philip in Mrs. Stevenson's care.

"You've been so sweet and kind, darling," she added, kissing him tenderly. "I hope I can make you really and truly happy."

Howard held her close, kept her face turned away from him as he answered. He had thought it all out a hundred times, what he would say to her. With words he would mold the bare fact of his cowardice into an act of reason, color it with plausibility and fitness. But suddenly the words he had chosen deserted him.

"Oh, Caro, Caro," he whispered brokenly, "help me, help me."

And then he told her that they could not be married. For a while Caroline lay quiet in his arms, uttering not a sound. Howard began pouring out words of entreaty against the numbness of her mind.

"He felt her tremble, shake. She tried to draw away. He held her closer still. 'Don't, don't,' he pleaded. 'Can't lose you, Caro, I can't. Don't turn on me, don't blame me. I've been through hell. Dad's a devil. He'll persecute us forever if we defy him.'"

It seemed to Caroline that she had been plunged into a nightmare. All that was clear to her was that Howard was proposing to let her down for no better reason than his fear of disinheritance. He was free—no, he was not free. Dollars shackled him. He was steeped in the worship of Mammon. She could feel a wall of gold rising up between them—or was it on a scale, with her in the balance?

She did not laugh. She did not cry. She simply felt sickened. When she tore herself free of his arms, without violence, but with infinite relief to be beyond the touch of his hands, he sensed the true measure of her reaction. Stark despair strode into his soul.

Caroline sent him away. With words as soft as she could summon, because she felt no anger toward him, she told him that he must go. She pitied him, seeing his weakness as she had never seen it before. It was not the pity that is akin to love. She was glad when the door closed behind him. She did not want to look at him, or think of him. It was as though he took with him the ashes of a fallen idol.

Dry-eyed and calm she went upstairs and told her father what had happened. Her voice was level, cool.

"It wasn't because he said that he couldn't marry me," she said, "but at once I knew that you and Mother, and Malcolm, had been right. What love I had left for him died in that moment, when I saw the real Howard."

"What love you had left?" her father repeated.

She nodded. "I know—now—that I've been falling out of love with him for a long time. He kept me from knowing it with his kindness."

Philip sighed. "I'm glad," he said simply. And then, "I suppose you won't go back to the factory," he added.

Caroline did not answer for a moment. "Why shouldn't I?" she asked finally. "I earn my wages."

"I'd rather you didn't," her father told her.

"Well, I'll look for something else."

But first, there were other things she must do. Heading the list was the necessity of telling Mrs. Stevenson she could not keep her. That astonishing person declared she would stay without

REPUBLICAN SERVICE MEN FORM GROUPS

Committees Are Appointed to Lead in Campaign

Activities

At an organization meeting held by the Morgan county Republican Ex-service Men's League in the circuit court room of the court house here last night committee appointments were announced by the chairman, Fred Main and plans for the campaign were discussed. Announcement was made that a picnic will be given by the Republican veterans at the Kiwanis Hut on Sunday, September 30.

Chairman Main commented on the cooperation being received from Republican ex-service men and pledged the support of the organization to the entire party ticket one hundred percent. Interest in the league and the Republican ticket was indicated by the large number of veterans in attendance.

Republican county candidates were presented and Hugh Green, candidate for reelection to the General Assembly was introduced and spoke briefly. Green spoke his appreciation of the work the ex-service men are doing for the Republican party and asserted the candidates would do their share of the campaigning. The county candidates present included Oscar Zachary for county judge, C. P. Siegfried for county clerk, Lee Stice for sheriff, J. A. Those attending were: Mrs. Claude Bricey, Mrs. Edward Lee, Mrs. Forrest Hoover, Mrs. Eliza Crist, Mrs. Charles Crist, Mrs. James Bartlett, Mrs. Robert Carlton, Mrs. James Bartlett, Mrs. Louis Bartlett, Mrs. Jess Marshall, Mrs. Harve Allen and daughter Dorcas, Mrs. John Hunt and Mrs. Bida Greenwalt.

News Notes. Mrs. Mildred Gleason of Kansas City, Mo., is visiting her husband in Roadhouse for two weeks. James Ballard has returned to his home in Roadhouse after undergoing a minor operation in a Jacksonville hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Woods and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lowry of Waverly spent the day Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Akers. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cooper and Floyd Boston of Manchester spent the day with Mrs. Jennie Akers and son Ardin.

Mrs. V. Bovey of Littleton is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Rawlins.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Roadhouse and family of Jacksonville were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Neal and family.

DOROTHY LEE PILE DIES AT WINCHESTER

Winchester, Ill., Sept. 20.—Dorothy Lee Pile, eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Pile, died at the family home west of Winchester Thursday morning at 4 o'clock.

She is survived by her parents and several brothers and sisters.

Funeral services will be held from the Christian church in this city at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon with Rev. Homer Evans officiating. Burial will be in Winchester cemetery.

Mrs. J. R. Boddy of Markham was visiting with friends in Jacksonville Thursday.

Mrs. L. E. Taylor of Winchester shopped here yesterday afternoon.

B. P. W. C. MEMBERS ENTERTAINED WITH TALK AND DANCES

Miss Schaeffer, of Beardstown, Is Speaker; Sextette Gives Dances

A program of outstanding interest was presented last evening before the members and guests of the local Business and Professional Women's Club, when Miss Vivian Schaeffer of the Illinois-Star, Beardstown, spoke to the group on "Women's Work on a Newspaper" and Miss Marie Hazlett presented her sextette of girls in a group of professional dances.

Miss Schaeffer asked the club "What is News?" Anything that is new and of interest to the people is news she asserted. The word news represents the four points of the compass. One of the most difficult things to accomplish is being able to recognize news.

One of the points stressed by Miss Schaeffer was that accuracy is the most important part in newspaper work. She stated several incidents where the lack of accuracy had changed the entire story, from what the writer had intended it to be.

She said that there aren't as many women in the newspaper work as in other fields of work, and the biggest majority of women employed in this section of the state in newspapers are either society editors or county editors.

Miss Marie Hazlett of Beardstown presented a sextette of pupils from her studios in Macon, and Beardstown. These students have appeared in vaudeville at a theatre in Springfield and at the Century of Progress for the last two years. The work of these small children, who are around 10 years of age, is equal to that of professionals and the program of tap, toe and acrobatic dances given last evening was very much enjoyed by the members of the club.

The dances were Joan Biddle, Martha McMillan, Margaret Ellen Heyworth, Jane Craven, Jeanet McGovern and Mary Allen.

Last evening's program was arranged by the publicity committee of which Miss Irma Brown is chairman. The next club meeting will be on Thursday evening, October 4 at which time Miss Elizabeth Mayo, district chairman of Pittsfield will address the club. Music will be furnished by Mrs. Barrow and Miss Margaret Burbridge of Roadhouse.

The supper committee for that meeting will include Mrs. Nettie Eard, Miss Marie Finney and Mrs. Gertrude Funk.

Mrs. Alice Applebee announced that the State Federation Board meeting will be held on Saturday, September 23 in Springfield. A dinner will be served at the Abraham Lincoln Hotel.

I. C. TRUSTEES AT OPENING CHAPEL SERVICE THURSDAY

Freshmen and upperclassmen assembled for the first general assembly of the year at Illinois College Thursday morning. Dr. George E. Baxter, of Chicago, chairman of the Board of Trustees, gave a short welcoming address on behalf of the board of trustees. He urged the new class, as well as the older students, to drink long and deep at the fountain of education. He brought out the difficulty of defining an educated person, but advised the students to follow these precepts: to think clearly, to act precisely, to judge soundly, to act precisely, to judge soundly, to act precisely, to judge soundly.

Rev. W. C. Meeker extended an invitation, on behalf of the Ministerial Association of Jacksonville, to worship in the churches of the city. He announced Thursday night, October 4th, as "open house" for all churches in Jacksonville for the students.

President H. C. Jaquith spoke briefly of the changes on the campus necessitated because of the tornado this summer. Most extensive repairs have been completed on the Jones building. Amber cathedral glass has replaced the stained glass windows in the chapel, the floors are of beautiful new hard wood, walls and ceiling are redecorated to match the other improvements. The freshman class outnumbered any hitherto on the campus of "Old Illinois" and represent 8 states as well as two provinces of the Dominion of Canada.

Freshmen badges, green berets and green caps are much in evidence on the campus and will be worn until leaf-raking day. The first edition of the Rambler, under the new editors, Fay and Smedley, was distributed to all students.

AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

William Richardson And Sister Are Robbed

For the second time in five months, bandits visited the farm home of William Richardson, one mile east of Riggston, robbed the farmer and his sister, and escaped in the Richardson automobile.

According to information secured by Sheriff Harry C. Montgomery of Scott county, a young man called at the Richardson home about dusk Wednesday evening and asked Mrs. Ida Kincaid, sister of Mr. Richardson for a match. Being suspicious of the man, Mr. Richardson accompanied his sister to the door. A second man had put in an appearance and the two youths, despite the protests of Mr. Richardson and his sister, forced their way into the house and seized the two occupants.

Mr. Richardson and his sister were bound with rope and thrown into a closet and the robbers started a systematic search of the home. What articles were taken has not been disclosed.

It is not known how long the men remained in the Richardson home, but Mr. Richardson was able to free himself about 3 o'clock Thursday morning.

At daybreak he went to Riggston and telephoned to Sheriff Harry Montgomery at Winchester. The sheriff went to the Richardson home and started an investigation, but the bandits left no clues.

When the Richardson home was burglarized five months ago the robbers escaped in the Richardson maroon colored Hudson car. The automobile was later found on a street in Springfield.

The men made no effort to hide their identity and it is believed that they are strangers in this community.

Officers are centering their search on Springfield as it is believed that the men headed toward that city following the robbery.

The complainant alleges cruelty and the excessive use of intoxicating liquor. Carl E. Robinson is the complainant's attorney.

Flames Wipe Out Nome, Famous Gold Rush Town

Almost every building in the world's most famous gold rush town, Nome, Alaska, was reduced to ashes as a wind-fanned fire swept from block to block after starting at the Golden Gate Hotel, rendering 1500 persons homeless. The highly inflammable nature of the buildings, most of them of wooden frame construction, is clear from the above picture. The absence of trees is due to the bitter Arctic cold that grips the community most of the year.

SCHOOL YEAR HOPEFUL SAYS M'CLELLAND

Opening Chapel Service of MacMurray College Held Thursday

Speaking to the students of MacMurray college President C. P. McClelland told the large audience that the coming school year, although filled with apprehension for many was in reality filled with hope and possibilities of great achievement.

Music Hall at MacMurray college was filled to capacity, Thursday afternoon, at the opening chapel service from the procession led by Dr. McClelland, Dean Roma N. Hawkins, and the faculty through the entire program.

The religious service presided over by President McClelland was exceedingly impressive with Professor Henry Ward Pearson, at the organ. A beautiful piano solo was given by Prof. Hugh Beggs and interspersed with the inspiring responsive reading. The ceremony was one, which will long live in the memory of the young people, beginning their college life.

The religious announcements made by Dean Roma N. Hawkins, Dr. McClelland addressed the students. He said in part: "The opening of college every fall brings to me a thrill, the same as when I take a long journey, either by railroad or steamship. It is an adventure of hope, some apprehension, some risk."

"Now as we begin another college year—this adventure in friendship and learning—although many vary in age and have different attitudes, they are engaged in a common purpose, the same quest. Faculty as well as students are delving into the subjects of the natural universe and inquiring into the lives and pursuits of those who lived ages ago. It is in human nature to seek wisdom and it is a great adventure full of excitement. It is a risk, for some may come out without a philosophy of life. In my opinion it is of vital importance that each one should have a working philosophy of life and it is most important to have this hour of worship and prayer."

Dr. McClelland drew the comparison of his student days to that of the present, stating that at this period, the young people are more alive to the problems of economics and the social welfare of the nation. He urged the students not to be indifferent to the strife and turmoil of the world and to also bear in mind that there is a great nervousness abroad in the universe, more or less hidden. However, Dr. McClelland further stated that these conditions must not create pessimism, for 100 years ago, things were happening, such as the urging of the enactment of the anti-slavery legislation and the murder of Lovejoy at Alton. If these happened today, the speaker said it would cause excitement.

Emphasizing the great need of a pride in our nation, President McClelland reminded the audience that it only took a trip to other countries to prove that we should have a just pride in our nation. He urged the young women to respect themselves and their opinions and their standbards of living and develop them as individuals. On the other hand, he warned them against superiority of behavior or in opinion since it was a "revelation of weakness."

In closing President McClelland emphasized a feeling of hope for the nation and a career for the individual and the student in the atmosphere of MacMurray college, under the guidance of a splendid faculty.

Proceeding the recessional the college hymn was impressively sung, as the audience stood.

GOVERNMENT CHANGE ISSUE BEFORE VOTERS

Greene County Election to Be Held November 6—News Notes

Carrollton, Sept. 20.—The Greene County Board of Supervisors met here Monday and after several different matters that were on the agenda were gone over, they adjourned. A petition was on file, containing the signatures of 770 voters, requesting that a vote be taken at the November election regarding the changing of the county government, from the township to commission type. There were over 300 signers in Carrollton, 292 in White Hall, 70 in Linder, 30 in Bluffdale and 74 in Patterson.

The board instructed the county clerk to issue the necessary notices and ballots to submit the question to the votes of the people of the county at the regular election to be held on Tuesday, November 6. This same change was voted on Nov. 8, 1932, and was defeated by a vote of 5,896 for township form to 2,698 for commission. The board voted to reappoint Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Edwards as superintendent and matron of the county house and farm.

The annual tax levy was adopted, carrying appropriations of $57,800.00 for general county purposes; $24,900.00 for county highways and $7,000.00 for mothers pensions. The legal restrictions of 25 cents on the hundred dollars valuation will cut down the receipts for the general county fund considerably. The rate for county highways cannot exceed twelve cents and for mothers pension two-fifths of one mill is the limit. A bill to amend the county liquor control to permit the sale of liquor in the county outside of incorporated cities and towns on Sunday was defeated by a vote of 7 to 5. One supervisor was absent.

MAIL NOTICES

The mailing of 888 tax notices to delinquent county taxpayers was completed by County Treasurer Julie Hubbard's office last week, and Hubbard and the County Judge G. K. Hutchens Monday asked that judgment be rendered. The judgment was to be passed, including special assessments, interest, penalties and costs annexed to them severally. He ordered that the property be sold as the law directs until the tax claim is settled with the exception of objections which have been filed to the tax by a number of railroads.

The St. Louis, Rock Island and Chicago and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroads have filed objections, also the Chicago and Alton railroad. December 2 has been set as the date for a hearing on the railroads objections. With exception of the railroads, all property, both tracts of land and town lots, on which the taxes are not paid, will be offered for sale at 1 p. m. Sept. 24 at the Greene county court house.
